Tackling the future

Chicago Bears rookie Tommie Harris scores with boys at Allendale

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
 bbeitscher@lakelandmedia.com

For most of the youngsters who live and attend school at Allendale, in Lake Villa, dreams are in short supply, and heroes are scarce.

This week, both were delivered in the person of Chicago Bears rookie defensive tackle Tommie Harris.

Harris took some time to spend a morning with about 15 boys in grades 9-12, playing a little flag football.

"Don't hurt him," the boys were warned. "No tackling."

No one got hurt. In fact, thanks to his presence and his personal message, some healing might have been affected.

Harris spent a few minutes telling the boys, who are almost all from troubled home environments, he knows exactly where they are coming from.

"I've been through what you've been through," he said. "I was kicked out of middle school, and told I'd never amount to anything."

Harris, who said he spent some time in juvenile hall for "discipline problems," reminded the boys to set their own goals and define themselves.

"Don't let anyone else label you," he said. "You know what you want out of life. If you shoot for the moon and you miss, at least you will be among the stars."

Just 21 years old, Harris, the Bears' number one draft pick, now finds himself among the stars. Even so, he has to earn his place in Bears heaven.

Like all rookies, until he is officially on the team, he will use the basement

Police recover $400K in stolen vehicles

By JULIE MURPHY
 jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Timothy A. Endre, 24, of 233 Prairie Lane, Round Lake, was arrested first on May 18, and again on June 4 after allegedly writing bogus checks for over $500,000 for a multitude of vehicles of which he took possession of $400,000 worth over several weeks.

Endre has been charged with two counts of felony theft over $10,000 by the Antioch Police Department as well as two counts of possession of stolen motor vehicles and one count of deceptive practices by the Winthrop Harbor Police Department. Other charges by other municipalities are pending.

Detective Sgt. Craig Somerville, of the Antioch Police Department, said, "We had never seen anything quite like this. It was really something."

He said Endre allegedly wrote a check to Lyons-Ryan for $32,300 for a Ford Mustang on May 11. Antioch patrol found and arrested him on May 18.

"On May 29, the same subject, on the day he was released, goes to Country Pontiac and writes a check for $32,942.50 for a red GTO, and on the 31st re-enters and writes a check for $16,700.05 for a 2003 Grand Prix," Somerville said.

He said through investi-

Endre

gation, police determined that the Grand Prix was purchased for a girlfriend in Palatine who works in Arlington Heights.

"We went to where she works and recovered that vehicle on Friday, June 4," Somerville said. "We were looking for Endre, and I kept calling his cell phone. In the meantime, I got a call from a marine owner who said he wrote a $270,000 check for a boat worth $310,000, a rare Fountain high performance, 38-foot long boat."

Somerville said he advised the marine owner to file a complaint in Waukegan, the area of that incident, and told him that the known stolen vehicles were in the LEADS system.

"I finally got hold of him on his cell phone, and he's telling me he's having a boat problem," Somerville said. "While I'm talking to him on the phone, the Winthrop Harbor police spot the red GTO and arrest him while I'm

Chamber welcomes largest arts, crafts fair 'ever'

By JULIE MURPHY
 jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Scheduled for June 19-20 from 10 a.m.-5 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Sunday, Antioch's Summer Arts and Crafts Faire will have more artists and crafters with a larger variety of wares than ever before. More than 125 vendors will set up shop in the new location on the Orchard Street Extension, just east of Main Street.

"This show keeps getting bigger," said Barbara Porch, executive director of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry. "We've turned away more artisans and crafters than ever. Despite that, this is our biggest, yet."

Porch said artists and crafters have been hearing that Antioch has a great show and want to be involved.

"Part of it is that the village has been so supportive," Porch added.

There will be various painters, ceramics, candles, jewelry, scroll work, chimes, pottery, needle point, door mats, hair accessories and a variety of wood products like shelving, containers and carvings. With new vendors come a new variety of handmade goods.

"This is a juried show," said Porch. "That means we've seen pictures of what everybody has so we can ensure that are no mass-produced products. Every year we're more selective about what will be allowed."

As has become tradition, there will be a nice variety of foods at this event. Porch said there would be ice cream, Italian ice, kettle corn and candied nuts. Friends of the Wetlands will be selling hot dogs and soda pop.

Additionally, Porch said there would be homemade canine pastry treats.

No one should have any problem finding the fair, as there will be a cold air balloon at the intersection of Main and Orchard streets to mark the entrance into the fair as well as various directional signs.

Porch said the Chamber purchased safety barricades and extra signage as the fair is now held directly off of Main Street.

"We want to make that everyone is safe," she said. "That's very important to us. We worked with Jim Ruth from the police department, and will have Explorers providing extra security."

The fair will be open rain or shine.

"We're hoping for great weather, but the vendors will be open for business even if we have mildly inclement weather," Porch said.

Parking will be available at the municipal lots off of Toft Street and in the parking lot behind the shops that line the east side of Main St. back by the William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center.

Porch said, "This is a great event. It brings about 10,000 people into our downtown and really shows off what our downtown has to offer as well. Merchants often bring some items out the sidewalk and leave doors open so all of Antioch has a nice welcome feel."

Financing helps to preserve affordable housing in Antioch

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

New owners of the Oakridge Village Apartments will spend $1.3 million to upgrade the 90 units that make up the complex.

The Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA) issued $16.5 million in tax-exempt bonds for the purchase and renovation of this and one other complex located down state.

The $4 million dedicated to upgrading the two developments will be spent on improving general conditions and repair.

"The preservation of affordable housing is one of Governor (Rod) Blagojevich's main priorities, because preservation is the most efficient and cost effective way to ensure that homes continue to be affordable for Illinois residents," said Kelly King Dibble, IHDA executive director. "We are proud that our financing will keep these housing units safe, decent and affordable, and that we were able to preserve these units without any cost to the Illinois taxpayer."

The Meridian Group, located in Middleton, Wis., will be responsible for the renovation work of Oakridge Village.

"The IHDA's financing will allow for the property to be upgraded for very low-income households," said Doug Strub, president of Meridian Group. "IHDA has been key in looking to reposition a 20-year-old property for the future."

The renovation work, that is expected to begin this summer, will include new windows, siding, and heating and air conditioning units. Pat Reilly, an IHDA representative said the work should be completed by late 2005.

The financing approved at the IHDA board's monthly meeting was earmarked for the acquisition and rehabilitation of 240 units in the two apartment complexes. In all, the board approved financing for the creation and preservation of more than 900 affordable housing units across the state, including the relocation of a group home for the visually impaired in Chicago.

According to an IHDA statement, a total of $6.5 million was approved for the purchase and renovation of Oakridge Village Apartments. The complex, constructed in 1983, includes 48 seniors and 42 families who receive federal Section 8 assistance.

The Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA) is a self-supporting, state chartered corporation that finances the creation and the preservation of affordable housing across Illinois. Since its creation by an act of the Illinois legislature in 1967, IHDA has allocated more than $6.4 billion and financed more than 150,000 units of affordable housing across the state.

IHDA accomplishes its mission through a number of federal and state funding sources.

COMMENTARY

By Julie Murphy

Quit playing, take responsibility

At what point during a four-year term of office do elected officials have to take responsibility for the action, or inaction, of their administrations instead throwing the blame for every ill on the officials of the past?

While it is reasonable to assume that messes are left behind for others to clean up, when does the process change from performance for the public good to a witch-hunt?

Is it fair to imply, accuse and insinuate that former employees and officials have been guilty of incompetence, at best, and outright illegal activity, at worst, in every public meeting? Even if everything that were implied, accused and insinuated were true (and there's no proof it is), is it fair to publicly rake these people over the coals, week in and week out? Is it acceptable to do this to people who can't even defend themselves, short of attending every meeting and responding in letters to the editor?

After the last meeting of the board of directors of the Village of Antioch, one of the trustees approached me and said it was my fault that meetings ran so long. She said if the press were not there, none of this would be played out.

While I take no responsibility for the behavior of anyone other than myself, I think she's correct that the press can get used as a pawn in political chess matches. Certainly, the effort is made whether or not one believes those efforts are fruitful.

In my judgment, both as a reporter for the village and one of its residents, listening to the mayor prefacing at least one-half of all of his comments with: "The previous administration..." is of no merit at this point in the game. He is beginning his fourth year as mayor and there doesn't appear to have ever been a break between his proving that the 34 votes that got him elected were wisely cast and starting the re-election campaign.

At the end of that same meeting, the finance chair said that I never report the "good" associated with the financial turmoil with which the village is still embroiled. I can only assume that "good" means to continue to publicly indict those who came before (I don't know for sure because the finance chair never responded to seven questions posed to him), along with the mayor, as well as to continue to pat the backs of those currently working to resolve what has been described as financial spaghetti by the village's financial director of two weeks.

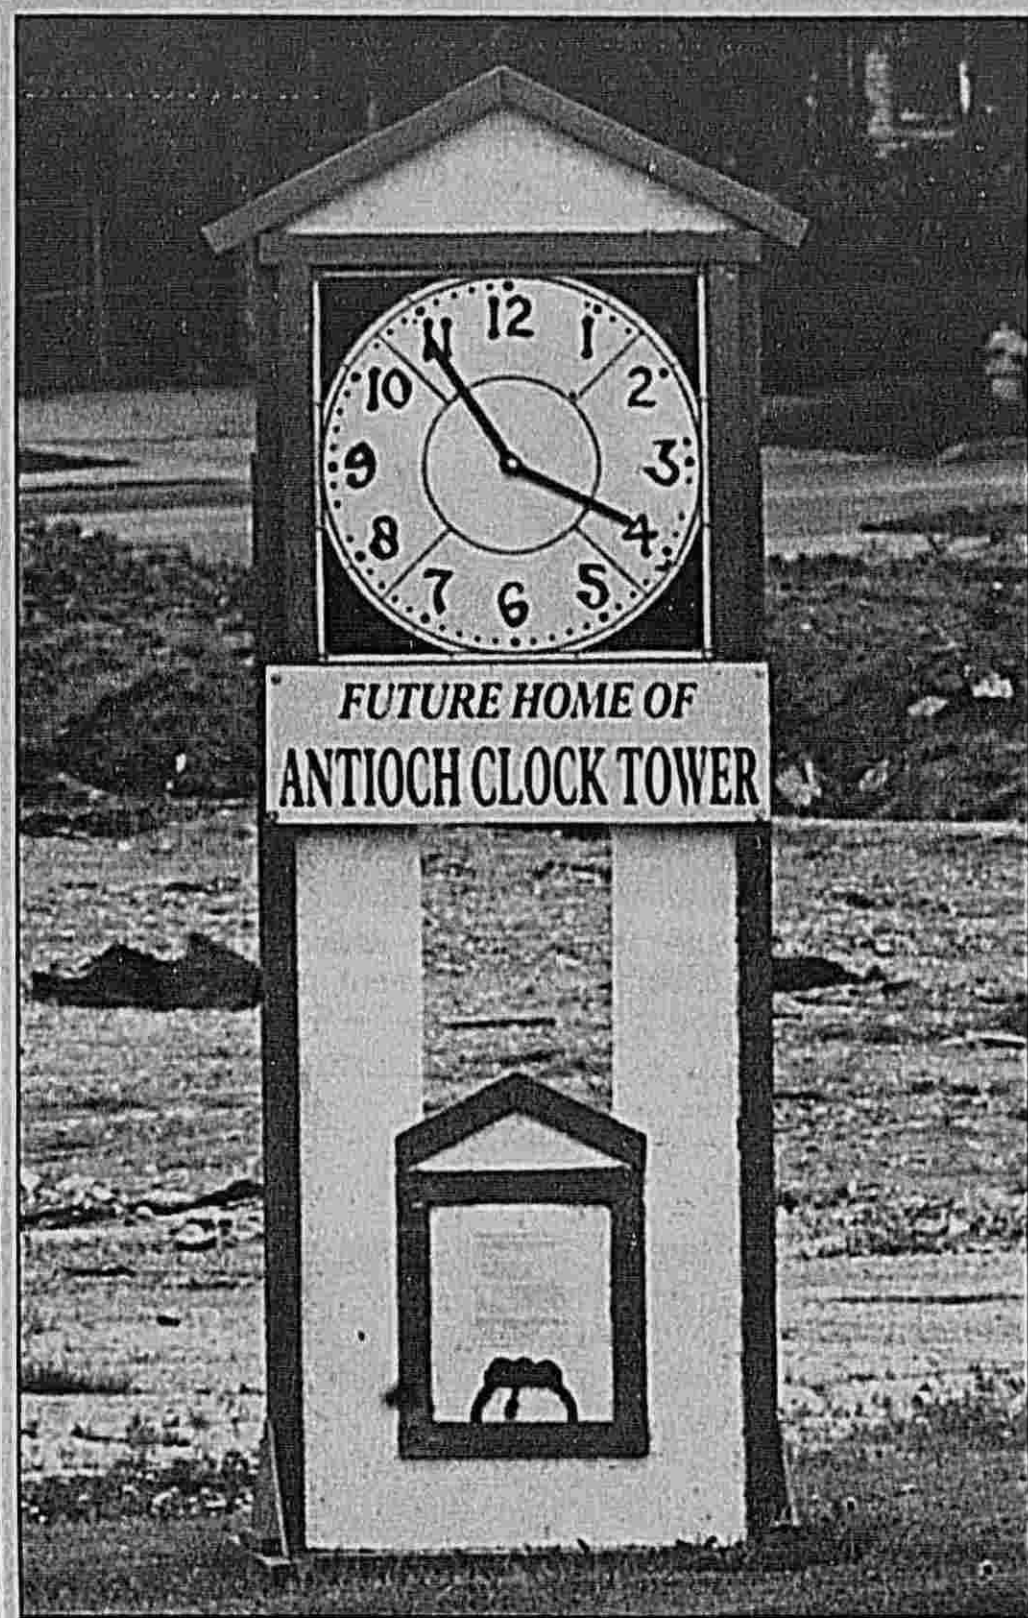

On more than one occasion I've written stories quoting the mayor stating that the financial problems inherited by his administration from the previous have been resolved.

In the June 5, 2002 Antioch News, an undisputed article appeared that read: "This is the best budget we've ever had," defended Mayor Taso Maravelas when trustees Barbara Porch and Dorothy Larson asked that the vote be postponed so that the two could further review the budget."

The irony is that this is the "exact" same thing the mayor said of the budget that was approved May 26 of this year. Additionally, he continues to chastise trustees who bring forth questions, though it is apparent that questions were warranted two years ago, as nothing has been definitively resolved.

It is clearly the hope of this resident/reporter that the village's financial problems are less than a month away from being straightened (as was reported at the last two special meetings of the board). Why should anyone be quick to jump on a bandwagon proclaiming, "all is well" when we're probably a year away from finding out for sure?

The mayor and his administration have done some good and necessary things in the past three years, but he casts his own shadow on the positives by constantly harping on the past.

Police seek additional high school vandals

By JULIE MURPHY
jmurphy@lakelandmedia.com

Though 10 boys were identified and arrested for criminal damage to property under village ordinance on May 24 following what appeared to be a senior prank, the Antioch Police Department is asking anyone with information about a subsequent vandalism that involved black spray paint on the front of Antioch Community High School to come forward. The non-emergency phone number for the department is 847-395-8585.

Antioch Police Chief Chuck Fagan said the department doesn't know whether the incidents are linked. He said names in the first incident are not being released to ensure nothing hinders finding those responsible for the second.

"We don't want to do anything that will hurt our investigation," he said.

Detective Sgt. Craig Somerville said the first incident occurred in the outdoor courtyard off of the school commons. He said a 12-foot pole had been pulled out of the ground, dye was put in the small ponds and a student project, a ceramic statue, was smashed.

Somerville said official damage estimates had not been determined, and that initial reports were probably high.

Superintendent Dennis Hockney said it appeared the students entered the courtyard, surrounded by building on all four sides, from the roof. He said there had been ladders in a construction area that appeared to be used for the students to first get up on the roof, and then down on the interior side.

Cooperation on the part of the school and the police department led to the identification and arrest of the first 10 boys. Disciplinary action was taken against these students and they were not allowed to participate in the graduation ceremony.

Hockney said, "They of course graduated. They had completed all the requirements."

Six females had been involved in the first wave of vandalism though they were not identified and charged until after the graduation ceremony had taken place.

"There was some spray painting on the field that had to be cleaned up before the graduation could be held," Somerville said. "They were also charged with criminal damage to property."

Somerville said that anonymous information about the black spray paint is welcome.

School's out, summer activities begin

School has just ended, yet one of the first events of the summer is school related.

On Saturday, June 12, Community High School District 117 is making the official dedication of Lakes Community High School at the school at 1 p.m. Driveway access is just east of Deep Lake Road on Grass Lake Road.

Local dignitaries have been invited as well as the parents of the students who will be attending next year.

Superintendent Dennis Hockney said, "This is a dream come true for us. We've been waiting a long time for this day."

The annual Antioch Miss, Junior Miss and Little Miss pageants will be held at the then newly dedicated school.

The pageant will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Lakes Community High School. Admission is $2.

OUR TOWN

Julie Murphy

Parks Director Laurie Stahl said, "The Village of Antioch would like to thank our 2003 queens for representing Antioch this past year."

Good luck in the future to Marie Heffernan, Miss Antioch; Jaimy Tindall, Junior Miss Antioch; and Sinclair Guntharp, Little Miss Antioch.

Don't forget that St. Peter Church has its 45th annual rummage sale June 24-27.

This is the second largest sale in Lake County and the school is always packed to the rafters, and then some, with great deals for bargain hunters.

The sale opens at 6 a.m. on Thursday, and stays open until 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday hours are 8 a.m.-7 p.m. and Sunday hours are from 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

For more information, call the Rectory at 847-395-0274.

The big appetites that result from all that bargain hunting can be satisfied at the 10th annual Antioch Firefighter's Association Pancake Breakfast on Sunday, June 27.

Breakfast will be served at the fire station on Orchard Street from 7 a.m.-noon. The cost is $6 for adults, $4 for seniors and children between 6-12 years old. Children under 5 years old eat free.

For more information, call 847-395-5511.

State Bank awards scholarships

Kathryn Cryns, a new Richmond-Burton Community High School graduate, received the first installment of an $8,000 scholarship award made through the Community Bankers Scholarship Program of the State Bank of The Lakes. Under the program, Cryns will receive $2,000 over each of the next four years.

During her high school years, she has participated in a number of extracurricular, community service and athletic activities, including soccer, basketball, cheerleading, plays and musicals, Environmental Club, and a church youth group. Cryns has won awards for her performance, spirit and sportsmanship, and, academically, she has been repeatedly recognized for outstanding achievement.

State Bank of The Lakes is participating in the Community Bankers Scholarship Program to help families offset the cost of post-secondary education as well as demonstrate its commitment to the community.

"We joined the Community Bankers Scholarship Program because we want to assist young people like Katy in achieving their full academic potential so they can make a positive difference in our community," said Cyndy Stout, Vice President at State Bank of The Lakes. "By helping these students pursue their dreams, we'll be investing in the development of our future civic and business leaders as well."

State Bank of The Lakes awards the Community Bankers Scholarship to a Richmond-Burton Community High School Student each year. The bank currently has 4 students on 4-year scholarships. Under this program, State Bank of The Lakes has committed to $1 million in scholarships over a 32-year period. Students can apply for the scholarship through their high school guidance counselor's office.

In addition to the Community Bankers Scholarship, State Bank of The Lakes awards a two-year full scholarship for the College of Lake County to a senior at Antioch Community High School. This year's recipient is Julie Bariamis.

DUI

Monte J. Wisler, 52, of 39130 N. Route 59, Lake Villa, was arrested for DUI on June 2 at 6:08 p.m. after being involved in a single-vehicle motorcycle accident.

Police responded to the area and saw Wisler sitting on the motorcycle holding several parts. He told the officer he took the turn from Route 173 to Route 59 too wide and hit the sign.

The officer detected the strong odor of an alcoholic beverage and asked Wisler to perform field sobriety tests, all of which he failed. He was unable to provide proof of insurance and while he had a valid driver's license, he did not have the proper classification for a motorcycle.

He was arrested and took a Breathalyzer test that resulted in .14 blood alcohol concentration. Wisler was issued additional citations for DUI over .08, no insurance, failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident and operating a motorcycle without the proper license classification.

He was released on a personal recognizance bond pending his July 6 court date.

Adam N. Cutler, 23, of 919 South St., Racine, Wis., was arrested for DUI on May 30 at 3:20 a.m. on Route 173 at Harden.

Police saw him weave within his lane of traffic, cross the centerline and straddle the lane markers as he approached Route 59. When stopped the officer detected the strong odor of an alcoholic beverage.

Cutler failed all field sobriety testing requested of him and agreed to a portable breath test with a result of .133 blood alcohol concentration.

He was arrested and issued citations for improper lane usage and DUI. A Breathalyzer came back with a .139 blood alcohol concentration reading. Cutler was issued additional citations for DUI over .08 and a second count of improper lane usage. He was released on personal recognizance pending court.

Steven H. Weidner, 24, of 575 Cardinal Lane, Round Lake Beach, was arrested for DUI on June 6 at 2:11 a.m. in the 1400 block of Heron Drive.

He was stopped after being seen by police activating his turn signal after the turn was initiated, weaving within his lane of traffic and crossing the double yellow centerline.

The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage. Weidner failed all field sobriety testing and registered .124 blood alcohol concentration on a portable test.

He was arrested and issued citations for failing to signal a turn and DUI. He refused chemical testing and was issued additional citations for operating left of center and failure to wear a seatbelt.

Weidner was released on cash bond pending court.

DUI/obstructing justice

Nicholas S. Kavouras, 33 of 25455 W. Highwoods Drive, was arrested for DUI on June 5 at 12:50 a.m. on the 800 block of Main Street. Michael E. Labelle, the passenger, was arrested for obstructing justice.

Kavouras was stopped after police saw him following too closely behind another and making sudden lane changes. He was stopped in the Post Office's parking lot, but drove through to the municipal lot.

The officer detected the strong odor of alcoholic beverage and Kavouras failed all field sobriety tests and was arrested.

The officer talked to Labelle, who was reportedly "obviously extremely intoxicated." Labelle denied having removed the keys from the ignition, but later said he had.

Labelle said he let his friend drive his car because he was too drunk. When police asked him to get out of the vehicle so it could be towed, he reportedly got upset but finally exited.

Kavouras was arrested and issued a citation for DUI.

Labelle was brought into custody because of his condition and held until he would cooperate. In the cell, he reportedly screamed obscenities and pounded on the walls. He was issued citations for obstructing justice and allowing an intoxicated person to drive.

Kavouras was released on personal recognizance pending court on July 6. Labelle was released on personal recognizance pending his June 25 court date.

"I have to earn my teammates' respect," he said.

The practice of relegating rookies to the basement began when the clubhouse was too small to accommodate everyone. When the new clubhouse was built in 1997, the team asked for the basement room to be included in the plans so they could continue their tradition of making the new players earn their spot with the veterans on the team.

It was a message the boys could relate to. In order to enjoy the time with Harris, they had to maintain good work habits at school and good conduct habits everywhere.

"This is a great incentive," said Jordan Luhr, Allendale's vice president of development and public relations. "The boys knew about the visit for about a week-and-a-half. It was something to look forward to." During the past two years, Bears players were brought to Allendale through United Way programs. This year was different.

"The Bears contacted us directly this year," Luhr said.

The visit from Harris was part of a team-wide community outreach program, getting players involved in any of five areas: education, health and wellness, youth football, volunteerism and underprivileged children and families. Corporate sponsors, such as Boeing and Bank One, support the programs financially.

Allendale provides both residential and day school programs for youth at risk. Many of the children are between foster homes, or on the brink of entering the court system. Some certainly could be called "underprivileged" by any definition.

The program relating to underprivileged children was of special interest to Harris.

"I just love kids," he said, noting his "fallback" profession, after football, will be in the ministry, with a focus on children.

Harris found a mutual admiration society at Allendale.

"I never thought, in my dreams, that this would happen," said Michael, 15, who wants to be a professional football player.

Darren, 10, connected emotionally with Harris. "I liked his speech," he said. "I had problems, too."

Harris explained that his father had been his mentor, but spent a lot of time away from home, in the military.

"When he returned, I began to settle down," he said.

He plans to return to Allendale to spend more time with the boys.

When he left, he left behind a gift of several footballs, a few autographs and something more precious: the thought that anyone with a dream and determination can survive adversity and thrive in spite of a bad beginning.

He left more than a game to look forward to.

Circus to be held on Allendale grounds

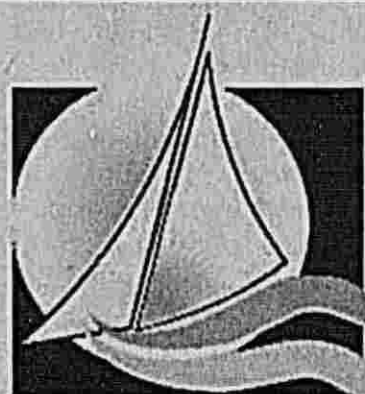

Under the auspices of the Lake Villa Parks and Recreation Committee, Bailey Brothers will present a "Big Top" circus, under a tent, on the grounds of Allendale, on Thursday, June 17.

There will be two shows: one at 5 p.m. and one at 7:30 p.m.

The event will feature high wire and animal acts.

Tickets are $12 at the gate. Children under 14 will be admitted free. A portion of the ticket proceeds will be donated to the Lake Villa Fireworks Committee.

Allendale is located at 1 Offield Road, at Grand Avenue (Route 132) west of Route 83, in Lake Villa. For more information, call the Lake Villa Village Hall at 847-356-6100.

LOCAL DIGEST

Local bank offers flood relief

In an effort to help area residents who sustained flood damage as a result of the heavy storms of the past few weeks, First National Bank-Employee Owned is offering short-term loans at low interest rates.

The loans are intended to provide money for repairs that are needed before insurance settlements are available. They will be written at a rate 1 percent below national prime for up to six months, with principal and interest due at the loan's maturity.

The loans are for anyone who has water damage and needs money for repair. Loan processing and the receipt of the funds should take one to 10 days after the application has been received. The deadline to apply for this assistance is Sept. 1.

For those needing longer-term financing, home improvement loans will be available for 1 percent below the rate being charged for non-flood related loans. The rates vary depending on the maturity date of the loan.

Applications can be picked up in person, mailed or sent via fax. All loan officers are familiar with the program and the process and will be able to help.

Flood victims can apply for loans at either of FNBO's two locations: 485 Lake St., Antioch, 847-838-2265; or 36044 N. Brookside Drive, Gurnee, 847-662-2265.

Laugh it up at library

Registration is taking place for the Antioch Public Library's children's program: "laugh it up at your library."

The program is geared towards children between 3-12 years old and runs Monday, June 21 through Saturday, July 31. Registration takes place through June 19.

Children who are not yet reading may be read to, while those who are reading are asked to set an individual goal of how many books they will read over the six weeks.

Free performances will be held throughout the program and will include a comedian, musician, storyteller, puppet show and a special appearance by Popeye and his dog Sweet Pea. Tickets for each day's performance will be available only on the day of the show on a first-come, first-served basis.

This is a free program offered by the library. It is not necessary to be an Antioch resident to participate.

For more information, call the library at 847-395-0874.

Rotary raffle tickets available

Eight lucky people will win cash prizes with the Antioch Rotary Club's 50-50 summer raffle.

First prize is $5,000 to a single winner. Tickets are $20, and only 1,000 will be sold. The drawing will be held on July 25 at the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry's Taste of Summer.

Tickets are available at the First National Bank-Employee Owned, State Bank of The Lakes and The Advertiser. Questions should be directed to Bob Schneider at 847-395-4444.

Proceeds support the Rotary's philanthropic efforts.

Students of Hillcrest Elementary School saw stars when Dennis and Karen James, parents of first grade student Tristan, conducted a brief tour of the solar system for about 200 students and parents in the Hillcrest gymnasium just before the Memorial Day weekend.

Using a combination of interesting facts, scale models, and everyday props such as a roll of toilet paper to illustrate information about the planets, Dennis helped the audience learn more about their planetary neighborhood. After the astronomical briefing, the Lake County Astronomical Society members, who had set up a number of telescopes on the Hillcrest playground, gave audience members a chance to view the Moon (the only natural satellite in the solar system without its own name, as Dennis reminded them), Jupiter, and Saturn.

"It's so cool, I could actually see the rings of Saturn," Cameron Hewitt said enthusiastically, when asked about what she had seen. "It's just like the pictures."

Heidi Wennstrom, principal of Hillcrest, said she was both surprised and happy to see such a large turnout.

"It was wonderful, and we certainly appreciate all of the effort Dennis put into planning and putting on this event," she said.

talking to him."

Endre allegedly wrote bad checks for an $8,000 2004 Suzuki motorcycle from Nielsen's as well as a $34,000 Honda from Rosen. Endre had reportedly taken possession of both of these vehicles, parking the motorcycle in a church parking lot and the Honda in doctor's office parking lot.

Somerville said he found the receipt for the motorcycle, purchased the same day as the GTO, and the Honda key ring during a search of Endre's personal affects after the June 4 arrest.

Additionally, Endre had written a check for $16,400 for two jet skis, and $156,000 to a Fox Lake Marina for the purchase of a boat. He reportedly never took possession of the jet skis and the marina did some checking and refused the sale of the boat.

In addition to the checks for the vehicles, Endre allegedly wrote a $3,000 check for a boat slip rental.

The two counts of theft over $10,000 charged by the Antioch Police Department are class 2 felonies, punishable by three to seven years upon conviction.

"We had to alert numerous other jurisdictions in this case," said Antioch Police Chief Chuck Fagan. "Working together in cooperation with one another brought this all about."

Somerville cautions businesses accepting checks for large ticket items to delay the sale.

"I'd recommend delaying the sale by a day or so, and calling the bank to find out if there is money in the account to cover," he said.

Dennis James, parent and member of the Lake County Astronomical Society, treated students and parents to the first two meals Neil Armstrong ate on his way to the moon: spaghetti with meat sauce and chicken and rice. James, who refers to himself as an astronomy junky, said he wanted to give the students one day that would make them feel like he did everyday during the early days of the space program.

A trip down memory lane

Carmel earns first sectional title since '99

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

Carmel senior Bryan Dovichi knows what it's like to be on a sectional title team, in a manner of speaking.

His older brother, Todd, was on the last sectional championship team from Carmel in 1999.

Now Bryan has some first-hand experience on a title team as the Corsairs defeated Lake Forest 9-5 last Saturday to win the Stevenson Sectional title.

Dovichi not only got the win on the mound, but also got the Carmel offense going with a key hit in the early innings.

Lake Forest took an early lead when Dovichi hung a curveball to J.D. Mynhier, who smacked it 380 feet over the left centerfield wall to give the Scouts a 1-0 lead after the 1st inning.

"My curveball was pretty good all day," Dovichi said. "I don't know what happened there, I just hung it."

The Corsairs soon struck back.

Steve Hironimus led off the top of the 2nd inning with an infield single and Dovichi followed with a double to left, giving Carmel two runners in scoring position with no outs.

The team then manufactured a pair of runs as Hironimus stole home and John Garatty, who was running for Dovichi, scored on an RBI groundout from Nate Rittenberry to give Carmel a 2-1 lead.

"I have kids that can run," Carmel coach Chuck Gandolfi said. "Some days we can run, some days we can hit, but we always try to put pressure on the opposing pitcher."

The Scouts kept the pressure on Dovichi, however, answering back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the inning to retake the lead.

Lake Forest appeared to add on to the lead in the bottom of the 3rd inning as Mynhier got a hold of another pitch and smacked a 390-foot homer to right center.

Then the strangest thing happened.

Carmel started cheering after Mynhier returned to the dugout, after he was called out for failing to touch first base.

"The ump was in our field of vision and we saw it right away," Gandolfi said. "It was obvious."

Lake Forest coach Tommy Myers naturally disputed the call.

"I thought he touched the base, our first-base coach thought he touched the base and J.D. said he touched the base," Myers said.

Despite the assertions from Myers and Mynhier, the homerun was disallowed, providing a huge boost to the Corsairs.

"That was a huge change in momentum," Dovichi said.

Carmel's next time up saw the team take the lead for good.

Hironimus led off the 4th inning with a single to center and scored one batter later on an RBI base hit from Ryan Meehan to tie the game. Four hits and a costly two-run error later and the Corsairs held a 7-3 lead.

Lake Forest had several baserunners over the subsequent innings, but failed to string hits together. Getting two runners picked off second base didn't help much either.

"We just had too many guys get picked off," Myers said. "They (Carmel) like pick-off plays, we know they like pickoff plays, they just beat us on those plays."

"We've been picking people off all year," Dovichi said. "We just kept calling it and John Brennan did a great job at second base."

Although the Scouts scored a pair of runs in the last two innings to make a game of it, Dovichi made the lead hold up.

Despite allowing five runs, Dovichi, who threw a no-hitter earlier this season, felt Saturday was his best performance of the season.

"I felt really good out there today," Dovichi said. "This was a huge win for me and for the team."

Sequoits have something solid to build on

By JOHN PHELPS
Lakeland Correspondent

They'll be back.
Most of them anyway.

The Antioch varsity girls' soccer team fell in the Prairie Ridge regional finals, but it was how this team played the second half of the season that has head coach Charlie Trout optimistic about heading into next year.

At one point, the Sequoits were 4-7 after getting dusted 3-0 by area power Warren.

But time and time again, they rose to the challenge and put together a nice run to gain confidence come playoff time.

Trout thinks the turning point after the lack-luster start happened when the Antioch earned 2-2 deadlock with state power Geneva.

"That game really gave us some confidence because Geneva was one of the top-10 teams in the state," he said. "After that, we started jelling. We tied them but we discovered that we could play with anyone."

Good point. Look at the numbers.

The girls proceeded to finish the regular season by winning eight of their next 11 games. Throw in another tie and the final mark wound up being a very respectable 12-9-2.

"We got everyone healthy too," the coach said. "When you have everyone healthy and putting forth their best effort, good things happen. We definitely started playing well as a team, from the passing to the touches to the communication."

Next season does look pretty bright seeing that Antioch lost only three to graduation. That means that the 2005 group will feature will nine returning starters.

Lost to graduation included two scoring threats in Callie Check and Katie Lincoln. Backup goalie Katie Kozuch also earned her diploma last week.

The offense shouldn't be lacking, though, with the return of leading goal scorers Kelsie Morway, who tallied 22 on the year, and Gina Florian, who was right behind with 17.

Morway and Lincoln were voted All-North Suburban, while Florian earned NSC Honorable Mention recognition.

tion.

The Sequoit defense should also be solid, especially in goal with senior-to-be Amanda Otten back. She recorded four shutouts on the year, including a 6-0 whitewash over Woodstock in the regional semifinal win.

In the victory over Woodstock, Morway knocked in three goals and dished out two assists, and sophomore-to-be Blocker added two scores. Florian also scored a goal to go along with an assist, while Lincoln dished out two assists.

Antioch has also been known for its solid performances in tournament action. This spring, they won the Sun Prairie (Wis.) invitational and finished second in the always-competitive Niles West tournament.

"We played our best soccer when we needed to," said Trout, after his team lost 2-0 to Prairie Ridge in the regional title game. "We had opportunities against them but just couldn't make it happen. But the girls played hard. I'm proud of them and how they stuck together. We finished the season strong and they should be very proud of that."

Also returning for next season include Lindsay Keefe, Nicole Moxley, Sarah Lincoln, Leslie Collins, Jessica Stein, Kasie Sheridan, Megan Placko, Jeanna Wirth, Melissa Pohlman, Allison Glaser, Melissa Lulofs, Jody Crivello, Dana Blocker and Maria Korosis.

Spider-Man to make special visit before movie release

By BRIAN JANOSCH
brian@lakelandmedia.com

On June 30 Spider-Man will be coming to theaters across the country. But on June 12 he will be coming to Libertyville to entertain the children of Lake County at the Family Toddler Tyme Expo.

The 'real' Marvel Comics Spider-Man will be in attendance at the Libertyville Sports Complex on Route 45 and Peterson Road to sign autographs, take pictures and talk about his new movie. The event will run from 11 am to 6 pm.

Also there to spend the day with the kids will be Sponge Bob, Blue, Cat in the Hat and Mr. Jelly Belly. But the excitement of this event will not end there for all the children present.

The main stage will feature performances from "Music-in-the-Box" kid performers, Boogie "Baby" Contest, Balloon Sculpting, a "big enough" fashion show and Irish and Scottish dancing. While the main stage will feature great shows for children to watch, many of the little tykes in attendance will want a little bit more participation.

Being able to participate is what the event is all about, and it is not simply geared towards toddlers. Some of the bigger kids can enjoy Libertyville Sports Complex's giant climbing wall or adventure through the 60-foot Dino Adventure Wind Tunnel where they fight through an obstacle course of prehistoric proportions.

Monster Golf will also have a little putt-putt area set up for the kids while the Little Gym will have a tumbling area set up for little ones to try and maneuver their way through a different type of obstacle course. Kids will also be able to create their very own masterpiece at the ArtWorks Children's Museum booth.

Children get all this for no charge if they are under 12, but everyone else has to pay a $2 admission price. But the $2 will certainly be worth it as just as much is geared towards the parents. With dozens of educational and informational booths lining the expo, parents will be able to find enough nearby family oriented businesses to keep their kids busy all summer long.

Parents will also be able to enter to win a two day family getaway at the Timber Ridge Lodge in Grand Geneva.

So bring the kids, the camera and an upbeat attitude to the Libertyville Sports Complex on June 12 because there is an entire day's worth of fun and excitement packed into one building.

Building character through youth sports?

It was a gorgeous summer day and the sun was shining bright. The dark green grass was mowed and it resembled the fairway on a golf course.

But it wasn't a golfing day. Instead, it was time to go to the soccer field for the fourth game of my son's season. And I'm telling you we loved it!

What a great way to build character and bond with my son. Healthy competition and good sportsmanship, it just doesn't get any better than that.

But lo and behold, things did not go as planned.

The game was only a couple of minutes old when the coach started screaming at his son for kicking the ball out of bounds.

I remember thinking that if he yelled at my kid like that, I would knock him on his behind.

Then one of the overweight fathers from the opposing team made a monkey out of himself by running up and down the sidelines telling his son to run faster.

And then things got worse! One of the parents on the sideline began berating the teenage referee for not making the correct call, and I remember thinking to myself that she sure was a witch.

As parents looked on in shame, we lost by a score of 4-1. During the mandatory post-game handshake, the opposing coaches almost got into a fight over something.

I think the argument was over the fact that one kid had hurt another kid during a high-five.

During the after-game huddle, the coach criticized everyone on the team and even started in on some of the parents. One little girl cried, and her mom looked like she was borderline hysterical.

I also made other observations, but there was not enough time to write everything down.

We only had twenty minutes to get to my son's baseball game and I remember telling him how important it was to make sure that his team beat the next bunch of losers.

No way was I going to put up with losing two games in one day.

Yes sir, I remember thinking sports were a great way to build character with my son. First soccer, then youth league baseball. And we loved it!

But of course, after that day we gave up youth sports for a number of years. There was no way I wanted him to grow up emulating the character of any of the coaches or parents that attended youth sporting events.

But now, (sigh) he has tried out for a traveling soccer team and I have a hunch he is going to make it.

I just pray that the coaches, the parents and myself have matured a little.

Kirk Players presents "Curious Savage," the final show of its 38th season, June 11-12 in the air-conditioned Mundelein High School auditorium. The production stars Wendi Lynn Zimmerman of Grayslake, from left, and John Kelly, Bobbi Houser and Jon Matousek, all of Mundelein.

Generations Perform in 'Curious Savage'

Kirk Players is proud to present the final show of its 38th season, "Curious Savage," on Friday, June 11 and Saturday, June 12. Both performances will be in the air-conditioned Mundelein High School auditorium, 1350 W. Hawley St. Curtain is 8 p.m.

Written by John Patrick, "Curious Savage" is a warm and gentle comedy about an elderly woman who is deposited in an institution by her stepchildren. There, she discovers the warmth and dignity of the gentle inmates of "The Cloisters." The inmates help her as she matches wits with her self-absorbed, greedy stepchildren. Throughout it all, she maintains a refreshing dignity and humor, which makes the story richly engaging.

While the Kirk Players have presented "Curious Savage" twice before in its nearly 40-year history, this production will be especially heartwarming. Ethel P. Savage, the elderly woman deposited in "The Cloisters," is played by Bobbi Houser of Mundelein, a veteran Kirk Player seen many times in the past several years. Houser's daughter, Wendi Lynn Zimmerman of Grayslake, and her granddaughter, Tania Lynn, also of Grayslake, join her in this production.

"This is very special for my family," Houser said. "The three of us love the theatre so much and it was a great chance to see one another more than once a week."

Wendi Lynn plays LilyBelle, the selfish daughter who has shelled out millions of the family estate to pacify her six previous husbands. Tania Lynn plays Fairy May, one of the charming, yet quirky, "inmates" at The Cloisters. In the end, of course, the grand matriarch prevails with more than a bit of wit and humor.

Welcoming Ethel to The Cloisters are other delightfully engaging "guests": Florence, played by Bev Johnson of Mundelein; Hannibal, played by Gary Gunther of Mundelein; Jeffrey, played by Fred Vipond of Mundelein; and Mrs. Paddy, played by Fran Hansen of Wheeling.

There is, of course, attending physicians at "The Cloisters": Dr. Emmet is played by Sue Gaubatz of Mundelein; Dr. Wilhelmina is played by Jenny Tomlin of Lindenhurst. Rounding out the rest of Ethel's antagonistic family are Titus, played by Jon Matousek of Mundelein; and Samuel, played by John Kelly of Mundelein.

Kirk Players' founder John W. Lynn, who first introduced the show to the Mundelein community in 1971, is directing the June production.

"This is a beautiful show," he said. "Especially in today's rather crazed world where madness and reality sometimes blur, it is refreshing to be associated with such colorful, rich and real characters as presented in 'Curious Savage.'"

Lynn is joined by a top-notch crew: Sheila Bourque of Third Lake as stage manager; Brenda Sparks of Mundelein as set designer; Gary Gunther of Mundelein as light designer; Fran Hansen and Sarah Van Sickle, another of Houser's grandchildren, of Mundelein, will be coordinating props. Fred Vipond and Pat Kichinko of Mundelein are managing costumes. Janet Ward of Third Lake is coordinating the sound.

More information about the show and ticket availability is available by contacting Paddy Lynn at 847-566-6391. Ticket prices are $9 for adults, $7 for students and seniors, and $5 for children.

Kirk Players is located on the Internet at <http://www.geocities.com/kirkplayers/>.

Lost in the Twilight Tone

The insurance industry may already have snuck past state legislators with its own health care initiative.

And lately I feel like I'm caught in the crosshairs of their ingenious plan.

I'm slugging through health care bills, wondering if my insurer bets on my coverage lapsing before I maneuver through their "Bermuda Triangle" automated phone system. "At the tone, please hold for musical drivel while your 'service representative' programs an elaborate message maze designed to reduce you to the level of a rabid rodent."

And what's worse, I'm one of the lucky ones. My family is fortunate to even have health care coverage.

Cardinal Francis George recently reminded national and state legislators that 44 million constituents, 1.8 million in Illinois, are without health insurance—hoping illness doesn't wipe them out like Third World disaster victims. (And lately these same folks must feel like they're at the back of the line when it comes to help from their elected officials.)

Also, I'm thankful that I'm strong enough mentally, physically and financially to stumble through my insurer's obstacle course: a confusing gauntlet that only begins with "pushing my buttons" on the phone.

I wonder how many insured elderly, families in crisis, disabled and illiterate lose their way trying to navigate our health care bureaucracy?

Maybe I need to just face the canned music. After all, nowadays it seems like the only time I hear an actual human voice on the phone is when a telemarketer is trying to sell me something. The rest of the time I'm hyperventilating into a receiver as life passes me by in computerized phone limbo: from the first pacifying tune played in call waiting, to that final, merciless disconnect—just when I think I've reached the end of the voice mail maze.

So I don't think it's farfetched to educate our youth on modern phone "etiquette," so they'll stay cool, calm—and connected.

As a matter of fact, during my last phone call to oblivion, I caught my daughter mimicking my frantic button pushing and catatonic stare while she played on her handheld "Gameboy." Why not replace this popular toy with a realistic, cordless "Phoneboy," complete with educational games like:

"Certifiably Insane": Kids, your health care PPO wants to deny your claims until you're certifiably insane. Match wits with this opponent's mumbo jumbo during repeated encounters, until you rack up the winning number of "curses."

"One million saved:" They've saved your number—somewhere. So your mission is to contact an actual life form from this mega organization before their "call center" closes for another day. With luck, you'll find the one direct line—pray.

'Chicken on the Grill' helps backyard chefs rise to the occasion

COOKING BY THE BOOK

June's arrival ushers in another grilling season. It also brings a new book by Cheryl and Bill Jamison, "Chicken on the Grill: 100 Surefire Ways to Grill Perfect Chicken Every Time" (William Morrow, 2004), which is nicely designed to provide ideas for preparing boneless, skinless breasts; chicken salads; and whole roasted chicken on the grill.

The Jamisons also offer some pointed words of advice to backyard grillmasters. The two most frequently made grilling mistakes: (1) a tendency to be less mindful of the cooking basics—time and temperature, and (2) failure to recognize and seek true grill taste. They recommend using direct heat to fully cook all surface areas of the food, whether it's poultry, fish or meat, and to cook with the grill lid open.

Here are two recipes you'll enjoy. We tested the Basil Chicken Breast recipe for a Memorial Day cookout, and it drew rave reviews.

Romesco-Marinated Chicken Breasts

Marinade

One 4-oz. jar of pimientos, with their juice
1/4 cup silvered almonds
1 red-ripe plum tomato
2 plump garlic cloves
1 Tbl. red wine vinegar

1 Tbl. paprika, preferably Spanish
1/2 tsp. dried red hot red chile flakes
3/4 tsp. coarse salt (kosher or sea salt)
1/3 cup olive oil
4 medium boneless, skinless chicken breasts, pounded 1/2 in. thick

At least 1 hour ahead, or up to the night before you plan to grill, prepare the marinade: Combine the pimientos, with their juice, almonds, tomato, garlic, vinegar, paprika, chile and salt in a food processor or blender. • With the motor running, pour in the olive oil and process until smooth. Set aside 1/2 cup of the marinade to use as a table sauce. • Place the chicken breasts in a zippered plastic bag. Pour the remaining marinade over the chicken, seal the bag and toss back and forth to coat the chicken evenly. Refrigerate. • When ready to grill, drain the chicken, discarding the marinade. • Let the chicken sit uncovered at room temperature for 20 minutes before grilling. • Fire up the grill, bringing the heat to medium (4 to 5 seconds with the hand test). • Grill the chicken uncovered for 10 to 12 minutes total; turn onto each side twice, rotating the breasts each time to get crisscross grill marks. The chicken is ready when it is white throughout but still juicy. Serve hot. [Serves 4]

Basil chicken breasts

Omit the marinade above

This marinade is something of a paste, concentrating the herbal flavor. • Combine 1 cup fresh basil leaves, 1/2 cup olive oil, 2 garlic cloves and about 1 teaspoon coarse salt (kosher or sea salt) in a blender or food processor. • Process until smooth. Marinate the chicken breasts in the mixture for at least 1 hour, or up to overnight, as directed above. • Drain, leaving the basil clinging to the breasts, and let sit for 20 minutes. Grill as above. These are good with a grilled vegetable platter or sliced over pasta.

Snack News

Late July Organic Snacks is the newest offering from the founders of Cape Cod Potato Chips. The crackers are free of trans-fats. They come in three varieties — round saltine, classic rich and cheddar cheese — with a suggested retail price of $2.99 per 6-ounce box. The bite-size cheese crackers also are available in a snack pack of six 1-ounce bags for $3.69.

Tasters who sampled all three had mixed opinions on the saltine and rich varieties, but were unanimous that the cheese variety was the best. While all are surprisingly crisp for snacks that have no trans-fats, all still were shy of expected flakiness and crunch.

Less Mess

"Love it. What a simple invention for keeping snacks from being scattered all over the floor or car," the mom of a 15-month-old wrote after she tried The Snack-Trap. "At first the flaps on the plastic top were a little intimidating, but once he figured it was safe to put his hand inside, he had no fear. He'd just pull up on a flap and grab a goodie. The Snack-Trap is a good way to help little ones practice feeding themselves while keeping your surroundings clean." Follow sounds of cannons to Civil War Fest at local church

This year, Lake Villa Township will have two opportunities to revisit the Civil War experience.

In September, the Lake Villa Historical Society and the Lindenhurst-Lake Villa Area Fine Arts Council will repeat last year's Civil War encampment on the grounds of the Lehmann Mansion.

For those who can't wait, or who can't get enough, there will be an earlier event, on Saturday, June 19, when St. Mark Lutheran Church holds a "Civil War Fest" on its grounds at 1822 E. Grand Ave., in Lindenhurst.

The emphasis in this festival will be on the music of the era, with the Wisconsin 1st Brigade Band performing at 2 and 5:30 p.m., under the direction of Bandmaster Dan Woolpert.

The band plays period music on antique brass instruments. They recreate the era, when their namesakes, members of the Union Army's 1st Brigade Band, 3rd Division, 15th Army Corps, participated, under the command of Gen. William T. Sherman, in the campaigns of northern Georgia and the Carolinas.

From 10 a.m.-5 p.m., "guests" can observe camp life, including a visit from President Abraham Lincoln and demonstrations of field surgery, light artillery and a cavalry and infantry unit.

The event will conclude with an authentic Civil War church service at 5:30 p.m.

Admission is free, and refreshments will be available for purchase.

The event is not a fund-raiser for the church, but, as a church member described it, "community outreach."

'Moonlight and Magnolias' pokes behind the scenes in 'Gone with the Wind'

CRITIC'S CHOICE By TOM WITOM

"Gone with the Wind" broke the movie mold in 1939. The landmark epic story of the Old South featured a star-studded cast (including Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara; Clark Gable as Rhett Butler) and garnered thirteen nominations and eight Academy Awards, including Best Picture.

While most films required only months to produce, this one was three and one-half years in the making, and it cost more than $4 million, a staggering amount at the time.

But there's more to "Gone with the Wind" than the movie itself. In "Moonlight and Magnolias," making its world premiere in Chicago at the Goodman Theatre, playwright Ron Hutchinson, serves up an uproarious behind-the-scenes comedy.

All the action takes place in the palatial office of producer David O. Selznick (featuring Ron Orbach, as the earnest, comical mogul). The brash studio boss has just halted production on "Gone with the Wind," firing its director and screenwriter. Now he's in a sweat, losing $50,000 a day in lost production costs.

Still, Selznick is committed to completing the picture, which he sees as a make-or-break milestone in his career.

In a frenzy, he offers a fat fee to Ben Hecht (William Dick, a droll funnyman), a one-time Chicago newspaperman who acquired a reputation as a screen writing miracle worker. Hecht gets a five-day deadline to come up with a new script. There's only one minor problem: Hecht hasn't read Margaret Mitchell's popular 1,037-page romantic novel set at the onset of the Civil War and running through the Reconstruction Period.

But Selznick decides that's more of an inconvenience than a major roadblock. He also has yanked Victor Fleming (played by Rob Riley) from the set of "The Wizard of Oz" and assigned him to assume the role of director.

The three—with rations of bananas and peanuts ("brain food")—agree to a lock-in at Selznick's office until the job is done.

At its funniest, "Moonlight and Magnolias" finds Selznick and Fleming reenacting the plot for Hecht, who, typewriter clacking away, immediately translates the action to a new script, chapter by chapter. As the days wear on, the bedraggled trio become slaphappy.

Dissension heats up over how to portray relations between Southern whites and African Americans and where to draw the line on a groundbreaking rape scene or certain language that is sure to be challenged by the censors. At the same time Selznick and Hecht blast the fickle movie audience they must please, and they have a touchy discussion about attitudes toward Jews in Hollywood.

Rounding out the cast with several walk-ons is Mary Seibel, as the ever-patient executive assistant. Steven Robman directs this delightful romp.

The Big Animal: This gentle story about a quiet couple who assumes temporary custody of an abandoned camel after the animal is left behind by the circus is a deceptively simple one that lingers in the mind (Playing at The Music Box). (Not Rated)

Garfield: The Movie: This animated kid movie has cute written all over it in a story that also appeals to parents. (PG)

Life for Garfield (Bill Murray) is grand. Sitting on his Barco lounge in front of the TV, he spends the day chilling out, often feasting on his favorite dish, lasagna. Things are going smoothly until his owner Jon (Breckin Meyer of "Kate & Leopold") decides to bring a new pooch named Odie into the home. This dimwitted mutt turns Garfield's world upside down, to the point that his new greatest wish in life is that Odie disappears.

When he is gone, Garfield feels responsible for something, possibly for the first time in his life. He decides to move away from the TV, find Odie and bring him back home.

Also stars Jennifer Love Hewitt ("Heartbreakers"), Alan Cumming (X2) and Nick Cannon ("Drumline").

Stepford Wives: Based on a novel of the same name, written by Ira Levin, this is a remake of the 1975 classic film. Joanna (Nicole Kidman of "Cold Mountain") and her husband Walter (Matthew Broderick of "You Can Count on Me") quickly become suspicious that the wives in their new suburban neighborhood are a little too perfect, with cookie cutter flawlessness in domesticity. Bobbie (Bette Midler of "What Women Want"), the odd woman out, is a cranky, sarcastic, non-exercising alcoholic, who has more than a few sparks left in her personality. (PG-14)

The obedient wives have been replaced with clones, and Joanna and Bobbie must learn to maintain their independence and avoid the risk of becoming robotic impressions of themselves.

This is a war and rest is not an option!

Mario Van Peebles stars as his father Melvin. In an exciting and politically charged tribute about the making of Melvin's 1971 classic film, "Sweet Sweetback's Baadasssss Song." Please read more about the period and the impact of the film in the accompanying interview.

Melvin Van Peebles was the Spike Lee of the Vietnam and Civil Rights struggle era of the 1960s and 70s. As in Lee's movie "Bamboozled," "Sweetback" mixed humor, romance and irreverence among images of people of color. Mario's film "Baadasssss!" captures that as well as the larger personal and political struggles faced by black filmmakers at that time. What we liked best about the film was its historical relevance that was entertaining from beginning to end. The dialogue stings with political wit that is as sharp as anything Spike Lee or Oliver Stone can come up with.

"Baadasssss" is a movie about many things. What does it take to be a successful moviemaker (somewhat like "Lost in La Mancha")? Relationships between whites and people of color 30 years ago and very importantly, a father and son bond for a lifetime. And interestingly, the fact that before you can pursue your dream, you must first be awake enough to have one. Broad-based general goals don't get it. You must have something specific in mind. Even when you have a specific goal in mind, you must have a plan you believe in so strongly that you are willing to die for it. Sometimes you only stop trying when you have either won or lost.

The working title of "Baadasssss" was "How to Get the Man's Foot Outta Your A—," which very accurately describes what the movie is about. The focus is clearly the challenges faced by a black person. However, look slightly beneath the surface and you'll see a universal story. In 2004, jobs are an issue with respect to outsourcing. The corporate fat cats are just as much the "Man" now as they were 30 years ago. The story is both the same and different. In this century the intended victims are not as much separated by race as by class. It's all about the Benjamins (money) and the Power. The clever design is that people with power and money would rather that those without it focus on each other rather than them.

Melvin, in 1971, and his son Mario, with "Baadasssss," reiterates and adds emphasis, to tell us something that we may not understand and it's way past time to find out.

Baadasssss!

A Conversation with Mario & Melvin Van Peebles

The true meaning of Father's Day

By George O. Singleton

Legendary filmmaker Melvin Van Peebles was in Chicago recently with his son and best friend Mario to promote their new film "Baadasssss!" which opens on June 11. In the film Mario Van Peebles portrays his father, during the making of Melvin Van Peebles 1971 classic, "Sweet Sweetback's Baadasssss Song," which became the most successful independent film to date at the time, increasing the vitality of independent films.

It's odd that Peter Biskind's best selling book on independent films, "Easy Riders, Raging Bulls," seems to have been blind to "Sweetback," in that the film was totally omitted from the discussion, as if it were a non-event.

"Sweetback" is credited with not only opening doors for non-comedic roles for blacks in front of the camera but for professionals behind the scenes as well. Now mainstream movies, like "The Italian Job" and "King Arthur" (opening July 7) are headed by Black directors. Depending on how you view "Sweetback" and "Baadasssss," you can carry away one of three different messages. First is the changing role of people of color in film, second, the maturing of independent film and third, what's really involved in making a movie that turns a handsome profit.

The studios feared Peebles not so much because of his controversial filmmaking but because other writer/directors might also see a way to make money in films by bypassing the studio system.

What struck me most during the interview was not the business of filmmaking, which these two men certainly understand, but the father and son relationship. With Father's Day right in front of us, I could not help but be reminded of how much I missed being able to say the words, "My dad." Although the memory of my father is as fresh as five minutes ago, he passed away in 1985. The way that Mario said this throughout the interview had an emotional impact upon me that words cannot adequately describe. It reminded me of what I had and gave me great pleasure to see that Mario truly values his father today. Somehow I know that if Melvin's next heartbeat was his last one, that there would not be anything left unsaid between this father and son. That indeed is a blessing. It reminds me of how blessed I am.

Okay, now that we have the mushy and important men stuff out of the way, let's get to the interview.

George to Melvin and Mario: From seeing both films (I rented "Sweetback" before going to the interview), and listening and looking at both of you, clearly the two of you are not only father and son, but also best friends. (Directing the question to Mario), at what point did you realize that you had this bond with your father?

Mario: Referring to Mark Twain, 'All my life my father was an idiot, and at 21 he was a genius.' I came to understand him by walking in those shoes a little bit. After having directed "New Jack City"... it came to me more and more, I started to realize that my dad in 19 days did what I did in 30-40 days. I grew up in a family that was 'by any means necessary' filmmaking.

Melvin: I never came to the set (while the film was being made). It was very easy not to be hands-on because I have a great trust in his creative ability and political consciousness. I saw the film in Toronto for the first time. At the end of the screening Mario said, 'Dad, what do you think?' At that time, 600 people leaped to their feet and were applauding. As a writer, I thought he got it exactly right. I did not try and second-guess him. I'm very pleased.

Mario: I was willing to sell out (tongue in cheek, for he would have liked to have big money behind him to make the film), but no one wanted to buy me out and let me have the vision I wanted. In Hollywood, film is commerce or a form of expression. The majors tend to chase an audience, while the independents tend to lead an audience. (George's side note: This is probably the best description I've heard of why you see a film at an art house theater, such as The Music Box or Landmark Theaters, rather than the local multiplex). I wanted to make a movie that had my father's spirit. Here's a brother from the south side of Chicago who has the French Legion of Honor Award. We (African-Americans) sometimes get tricked into this thing of not wanting to succeed too much because 'I might forget who I am.' This cat had no complex about being the boss at all. Although I made the movie in 18 days, no one was shooting at me (figuratively) like they were with him.

I've had the pleasure in recent years of interviewing interesting people such as Denzelle Washington, Jack Black, Diane Lane, Mark Wahlberg, and John Sayles, but I was only moved to applaud Melvin Van Peebles after our discussion. It's people like him, somewhat like a surrogate father, that cut his own path and made not only his life better but the lives of others, such as myself, as well. For that, he deserves a standing ovation. My hat is off to him as well as other unsung fathers that are heroes to their sons. It's what Father's Day is all about. He defines the word "icon" in the very best way.

12-year-old member awarded free bike for submitting concept of 'Max Million Mascot'

Community Trust Creates "CTCU Kids' Club" For Younger Members

Community Trust Credit Union is doing everything it can to help its members, young and old, understand the value of planning for a sound financial future. This includes creating a CTCU Kids' Club for its younger members, and conducting a mascot hunt that has resulted in the development of a fun and financially savvy new mascot character named Max Million.

"One of the things that sets credit union membership apart from the typical banking experience is that it's a family affair," said Community Trust Credit Union's Marketing Director Michelle Huffine. "We like the fact that our members often select Community Trust as the place to introduce their youngsters to the financial world." Huffine says Community Trust takes this responsibility seriously... but it's OK to have fun too. "We conducted the 'CTCU Kids' Club Mascot Hunt' to give our young members a chance to help shape the credit union's future."

Based on the character concept suggested by nine-year-old Waukegan resident Evan Ford, CTCU's Kids' Club mascot "Max Million" will be featured in Community Trust's Gurnee, Grayslake and North Grayslake branch lobbies, as well as the credit union's new Kid's Club

MONEYBAGS newsletter, a special website section and other educational materials viewed by kids. The popular credit union has even produced a "Max Million" costume, so the character can actively participate in special Member Appreciation and community events.

To thank Evan for coming up with the character, Huffine and CTCU's President John Bratsakis recently presented him with a new bike. According to the young creative whiz, the Max Million character reminds him that being a credit union member is a cool way to live life to the max! "I like to set goals for myself and then work hard to achieve them," said Evan, a third-grader at O'Plaine School who takes piano lessons and is an avid artist.

As a non-profit organization, Community Trust Credit Union can offer lower loan rates, competitive savings rates, and fewer fees than at most other financial institutions. To learn more about Community Trust Credit Unions award-winning credit union member savings programs, and the benefits of becoming a member of the member-owned financial cooperative, visit their website at www.ctcu.org or call Michelle Huffine at 847-662-2050.

Discover Spear Throwing: The Ancient Art of the Atlatl

The Lake County Discovery Museum will present Spear Throwing: The Ancient Art of the Atlatl on Saturday, June 19 from 11 a.m.-1 p.m. This new workshop provides participants with an opportunity to learn about, and experience the atlatl an ancient spear-throwing device. The workshop is open to adults and families with children ages 7 and over.

Workshop registration is $7 for Lake County Residents and $9 for non-residents. Registration also includes admission to the museum. Lake County Discovery Museum is located in Lakewood Forest Preserve on Route 176 at Fairfield Road.

The atlatl, basically a stick with a hook in the end used to increase the leverage in throwing a spear, is a tool used to enhance human power and was first used over 25,000 years ago. The effectiveness of the atlatl allowed early man to hunt large animals such as the Mammoth or Woolly rhino.

Studies of the atlatl have now revealed that it was and is truly a very efficient weapon.

Participants in Lake County Discovery Museum's workshop will learn about the spear and spear-throwing device, then have an opportunity to experience and practice spear throwing and perhaps even to set a new world's record.

For more information please call Lake County Discovery Museum at 847-968-3400 or visit www.lakecountydismuseum.org

School, parents split district

Grayslake—High School District 127 board members were reminded that they'll be making history when they decide later this month which way to split the district into two schools.

District 127 serves students who live in Grayslake, Hainesville, Lake Villa, Libertyville, Lindenhurst, Round Lake, Round Lake Beach, Round Lake Park and Third Lake.

District boundary committee member Jon Cokelair presented one plan to split the district after telling board members, "You're gonna make a permanent record. It's a very historic decision."

Race on to get new area OTB

Public hearing to be held in July regarding facility near Mundelein

By CORINNE REYNOLDS
creynolds@lakelandmedia.com

County officials are taking steps to regulate an off-track betting facility that could open in an unincorporated area near Mundelein. The initiative came after Arlington Park racetrack representatives approached the county about possible plans to open an OTB facility at "The Shack," near the intersection of Routes 60 and 83 in Evanston.

County officials found themselves in a new situation when the issue came up, as there are no currently existing county regulations for OTBs.

"The ordinance does not contemplate this type of use," said zoning administrator Sheel Yajnik, of the county's Unified Development Ordinance, which regulates casinos and other gaming operations.

The County Board's Planning, Building and Zoning Committee this week proposed regulations for OTBs that are now subject to the full board's approval.

"The text amendment will be to include this use subject to certain standards," Yajnik said. Proposed standards would prohibit OTBs within 500 feet of a school or church, and within 500 feet of a residential area in which more than 50 percent of registered voters object to the use.

The county does ultimately have the power to prohibit this type of facility, Yajnik said, and it would come down to a board decision. A public hearing would also be required.

County board member Diana O'Kelly, of Mundelein, has already spoken out against the idea of an OTB.

"I don't want an off-track betting establishment," O'Kelly said. "This community is not receptive to that type of business."

She noted that although it

Father, son plead guilty in animal cruelty case

By GINNY SKWERES

A father and son pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals, a misdemeanor, Friday in Lake County Circuit Court.

Jason Mitsias, 29, of Streamwood, must serve a one-year conditional discharge, which is similar to non-reporting probation that keeps him under the jurisdiction of the court, plus 50 hours of community service, said Assistant State's Attorney Mary Stanton. His conviction will remain on his record.

His father, Arthur, 61, also of Streamwood, had no prior convictions, pleaded guilty to a Class C misdemeanor and was given court supervision and ordered to make a $200 donation to Orphans of the Storm, an animal shelter. If there are no more convictions within a year, his record will be cleared.

Arthur Mitsias denied that neither he nor his son, Jason were involved in any illegal dog-fighting activity. Jason Mitsias avoided arrest until a Streamwood police officer recognized him and brought him into custody months after a warrant was issued. The men must jointly pay $9,000 of restitution to the Lake County Animal Shelter.

The prosecutors did not have enough evidence to charge the men with dog fighting, but Stanton is satisfied with the conviction.

"I wanted to see the conviction because now he (Jason Mitsias) is felony-eligible," Stanton said. "It will

County, township split bad debt

By JEFF ZACHARY
zachary@lakelandmedia.com

The Lake County Board approved a settlement agreement reached between Avon Township and the Winchester House regarding a debt that could not be collected.

The joint resolution stated that the Lake County staff had been working with representatives of Avon Township and Winchester House authorizing the senior citizen care facility to write off $6,114.25 of an outstanding bill for $12,228.50.

The remaining $6,114.25 would be paid by Avon Township.

According to Avon Township Supervisor Russ Christian, Avon Township used to do the collecting from its residents who lived at Winchester House for Lake County up until about two years ago when the County decided to do its own collecting.

He explained that Avon Township had been unsuccessful in its attempt to collect the money from the heirs of a woman who used to live at Winchester House and that the State's Attorney was not able to remedy the situation.

"There are some people at Winchester who are on Medicaid and their bills are paid by the State. Other people have money and can pay their own bills. We would collect for Winchester House and forward the money to them," said Christian. "This woman died and her heirs said they hadn't signed anything and refused to pay. I then talked to the manager at Winchester House and offered to split it down the middle and he agreed," Christian said.

Christian then explained that Lake County first had to approve the agreement and that's why they voted on it at the June board meeting.

"Hopefully it's all taken care of now," Christian said. "I've already sent them a check."

The township supervisor refused to give the name of the woman or her heirs that refused to pay the bill.

Ingleside man wins rare Babe Ruth card

Judge rules in favor of former card store owner in '1933 Babe Ruth' case

By BRENDA BALIN-BEITSCHER
bbeitscher@lakelandmedia.com

Eight years after surrendering a Goudey 1933 Babe Ruth chewing gum card to Lindenhurst Police, the card is finally back in the hands of former card store owner David Damos.

Damos, who lives in Ingleside, was awarded the card in a lawsuit decided in Waukegan on June 3.

The original suit was brought against the Lindenhurst Police Department and the Village of Lindenhurst. The village told the court it has no interest in holding the card, but would only release it when the proper owner was determined.

Damos was moved to sue after media reported the card, in the possession of the village since 1996, was to be auctioned off on eBay.

Olga Wojcicki, executor for the estate of Mark Gavin, came forward as an interested party, when she was contacted by a newspaper reporter about the lawsuit.

During the bench trial before Judge Michael J. Fritz, Damos, now in commercial construction, said the card came into his possession when a man, who identified himself as William Herman, came into All-Stars Baseball Cards in Lindenhurst. The man sold the card to Damos, who said he did not have the entire $250 purchase price in his cash register.

He gave the man $110 in cash and a postdated check for $140. The man returned the day before the check date, claiming he was unable to cash the check.

Damos testified that, at that time, he took back the check and paid the man in cash. He had no records of the transaction, and police were never notified of the check exchange.

As evidence, he presented the court with an uncashed check, payable to "William Harmon," with the signature torn off.

According to Damos, a couple of weeks later, a man came into the shop and claimed the card was his. At the time, Damos had three Babe Ruth cards in the shop: the one in question, one identical to it and one different. The man seemed unclear as to which was his.

Damos spotted a Lindenhurst Police car outside the shop, and told police the card was "possibly stolen." Police took the card into their custody, pending investigation.

A year later, a man and woman came to the shop claiming the card. Damos testified that he invited the couple to go to the police station, but they did not. Damos was unable to identify Wojcicki as the woman who entered the shop.

Lack of police documentation did not help the case for Wojcicki. She claimed that the card was stolen from Gavin in 1996, possibly by William Herman, who did some contracting work for Gavin. There were no police reports of the theft.

Complicating Wojcicki's case, all of the principals involved are dead. Wojcicki testified that her father gave the card to Mark Gavin and Wojcicki's sister, Alice Melnytschuk, before his death in 1990. Ten years later, Gavin died. His live-in girlfriend, Melnytschuk, predeceased him. William Herman is also dead.

A note written by Wojcicki, attesting that she "knew for a fact" that her father had given a 1933 Babe Ruth baseball card to Mark Gavin was ruled inadmissible under the "Dead Man's Act," because the deceased person could not refute the testimony, and the person testifying stood to gain as a result.

In making his ruling, the judge indicated there was only one clear path of ownership: the card in the possession of Lindenhurst had been in the possession of David Damos.

It was not proven that the same card was the one Gavin had owned, nor that "William Herman" who sold the card to Damos was the same person known by Wojcicki.

Absent police reports of the theft, even that could not be proven.

"The only credible evidence presented is that (Damos) paid fair market value for the card," Fritz said. The card, then purchased for $250, was, at the time, worth about $750. In its present condition, the card is expected to bring $1,200-1,500 or more on eBay.

Fritz said there was no record of how many of the same cards were in circulation at the time, noting that Damos testified that he had several in his shop in 1996.

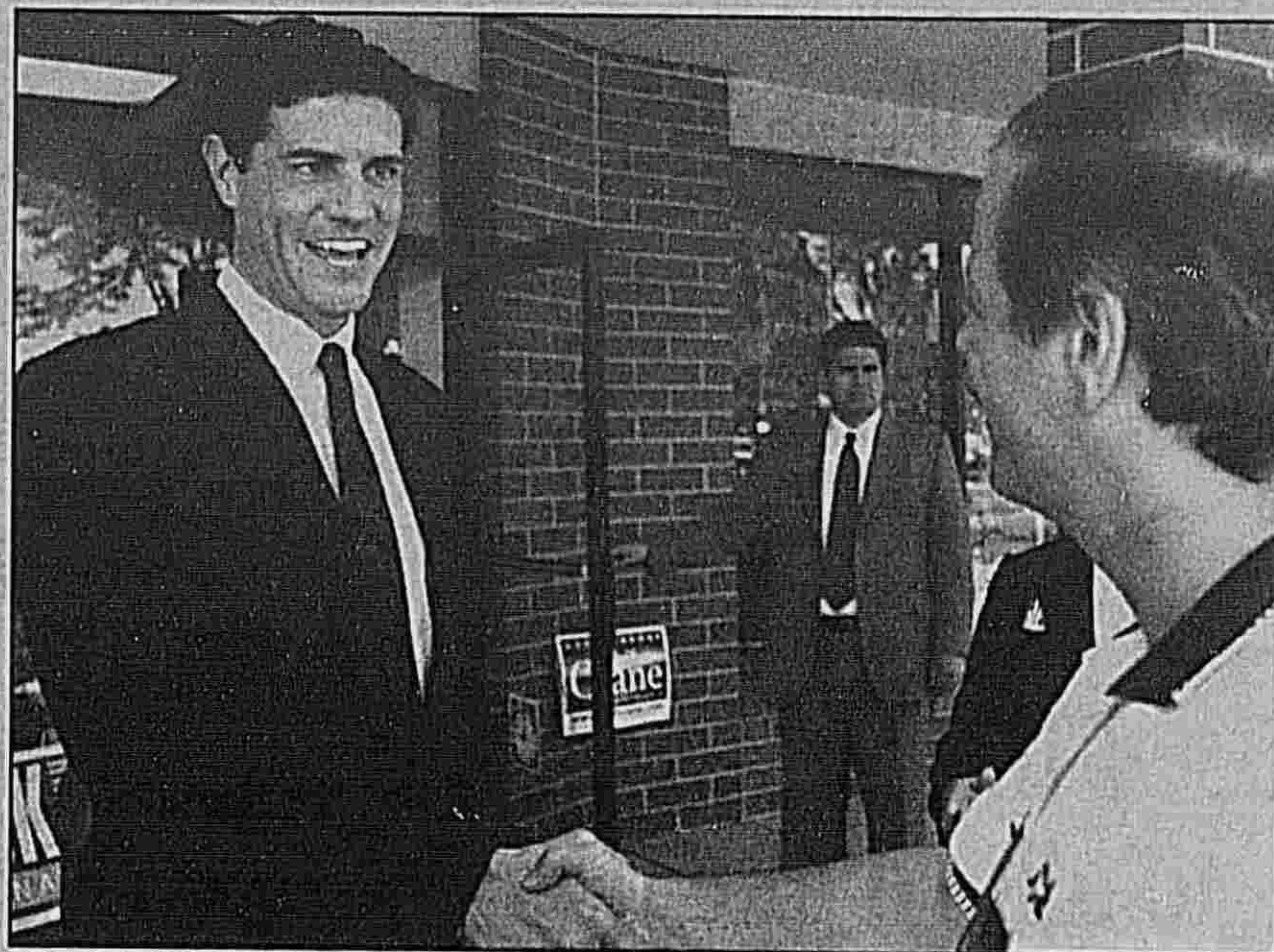

"With an uninterrupted chain of ownership from Damos to the Lindenhurst Police Department, there is no question in my mind that the card should go to Mr. Damos," the judge said.

Damos said he made several attempts to regain possession of the card in the intervening years, but the police department said it would only release the card with a court order establishing ownership. He finally received the card back on June 5.

Damos no longer owns the card store, and does not deal in baseball memorabilia anymore. He plans to auction the card on eBay in the near future. A percentage of the proceeds will go to his attorney. He intends to donate the rest to two youth programs: one in Waukegan and one in Barrington.

"It was not about the money," he said, when asked why he pursued the case, with no expectation of personal gain. "It was the principle. It was my card."

Wojcicki, through her attorneys, refused comment.

Food bank collects 200lbs of food for Hunger Awareness

By BRIAN JANOSCH
bjanosch@lakelandmedia.com

Sixteen different municipalities from around Lake County gathered at the Lake County Fairgrounds, June 3. They came bearing over 2,000 pounds of food collectively to support the Northern Illinois Food Bank's National Hunger Awareness Day.

"This is one way that we can really come together and address a problem," State Representative Kathy Ryg said. "By coming together things can be solved without having to rely on increased financial resources which just aren't available."

Ryg, along with Lake County Board members Suzi Schmidt and Michael Talbott were among those in attendance at the event. Along with several officials from other contributing communities, those there to support the event were gathered for a luncheon where they heard from speakers and ate the same lunches that are put out for the needy.

"In a diverse county there are those that have and those that don't have," Schmidt said. "It's our duty to help those who don't have."

Schmidt, in her speech, gave the official proclamation approved by the Lake County Board that declared June 3 Hunger Awareness Day in Lake County.

But the Hunger Awareness Day was not just a Lake County event. The theme of the day was "One Big Table," where Second Harvest, an organization of more than 200 food banks, tried to stress the image of a table stretching across the entire United States for all those in need to sit at. The goal was to provide for all the hungry across the United States through the coalition efforts of counties stretched nationwide.

At 12:30 in DuPage, Kane, Kankakee, Lake, Will and Winnebago Counties, hunger awareness supporters all sat down at tables at the same time. The theme of one big table was coming true.

"Four to five years ago I never realized people went to bed hungry," speaker John Sfira said to the group. "Food is taken so for granted that we needed a day to raise awareness so that people don't go to bed hungry."

Some of the fire and/or police departments that contributed to the efforts were from Mundelein, Round Lake, Gurnee, Waukegan, Grayslake, Libertyville and Wauconda.

The Northern Illinois Food Bank also worked in conjunction with Chipotle restaurants that were offering free entrees with canned food donations. The line at a Vernon Hills Chipotle stretched out the door and the location ended up raising two entire vanloads of food.

A large emphasis for the day was that hunger is a "today issue," and people need to realize just how widespread it is. In the month of May, 16 Lake County pantries served food to over 18,000 different people who were in need of assistance at one point or another. And that number doesn't include the 40 other pantries and soup kitchens around the county that aren't run through the government, Northern Illinois Food Bank Director Scott Keenan said.

"We are so fortunate to get people together to increase awareness about a problem that is pretty broad," Ryg said. "In tough economic times, people will lose their jobs or health benefits and get stretched and they may rely on the food bank or the food pantry to help them through some tough times...The most important thing is to recognize that this could be anybody."

Finding answers to affordable housing

A few weeks ago a group of citizens plunged gamely into the murky waters of providing affordable housing with the aim of drafting a state-wide housing policy for Gov. Rod Blagojevich and the General Assembly before the end of the year. Wish them well.

The politically explosive problem of lack of affordable housing surfaces from time to time. State task forces have studied the problem before. Lake County tackles the affordable housing issue on a semi-regular basis. We're aware of four efforts in the last 10 years or so. Maybe it's six. It's easy to lose track.

To our knowledge, affordable housing rarely, if ever, has been studied at the local council level. Village trustees are in the business of passing judgment on new construction or approving new subdivisions. Affordable housing just doesn't seem to be part of the vernacular for village officials. Maybe that's the nub of the problem.

Often potential affordable housing is eliminated as being substandard or in violation of local building codes. It's refreshing that some business leaders are aware that a laudable goal is matching affordable housing with available jobs. Not an easy task.

Past studies are notable for coming up with a variety of interesting and creative ideas. Even before the state task force began its work, an activist stressed the importance of rehabbing existing homes as opposed to demolition. New York has experienced success in providing affordable housing by allowing building owners to deduct rehab costs from property taxes. The tax reduction carrot works like magic in just about every case.

One intriguing aspect of the impending state task force assignment is uncovering funds for housing that now are tucked away in obscure budgets. Also, the task force needs to serve notice that a "hands off" policy on housing funds is necessary. Gov. Blagojevich made political hay by creating the task force, but then he skimmed off $8.8 million from an affordable housing trust fund to help balance the state budget.

For the most part, private lending institutions will be ready to do their part if called upon. Second Federal Savings and Loan, which has a branch in Lake County, made headlines recently with an innovative mortgage program for suburban immigrants.

There is a hefty supply of housing stock in every community that could help answer affordable housing needs, the type of shelter a middle income family could afford to buy or rent. What is lacking is the courage of locally elected officials to tackle the problem. They tend to relate affordable housing with low income families or minorities.

There will be elections next spring for village and city councils. Be on the lookout for candidates who include a pledge to do something about affordable housing in their campaign planks.

Senior pay-off: service to people

A luncheon put a dent in the notion that senior citizens, while away the hours watching tv, playing bingo or hanging out at the mall. The Lake County Council for Seniors honored more than 15 active men and women for outstanding community service.

What an interesting array of activities those folks are involved in. And all of them designed to help someone else. Blood pressure screenings. Operating a recycling center. Learning about police work. Library aide. Youth worker. Helping with assisted living. Providing shelter for the homeless. Widow and widower outreach. Park district work. Talk about an all-star lineup!

Just about every corner of the county was represented at the event for honorees. Couple of things to note about the luncheon gathering: The seniors are volunteers and they contribute not for individual aggrandizement, but for personal satisfaction and fun.

Congratulations to the winners. And thanks to all the seniors considered for honors. Maybe you'll make the spotlight next year.

VIEWPOINT

Villages slight sailor volunteers

Villages in flood ravaged DesPlaines River communities were quick to accept volunteer sandbagging help from sailors at Great Lakes Naval Station, but five of six communities utilizing sailors help passed on an opportunity to offer public thanks.

Approximately 400 military personnel from Great Lakes responded to a call for volunteers to join sandbagging teams when the DesPlaines went on a May rampage. They worked side-by-side with civilians filling sandbags during critical hours.

Many residents of flooded areas contacted the Great Lakes Bulletin, official newspaper of the navy base, about drawing up a public service advertisement conveying community appreciation. The advertisement was designed and presented to officials of Gurnee, Libertyville, Lincolnshire, Mt. Prospect, Prospect Heights and Riverwoods.

Dick Merki, Account Executive of the Bulletin, said the ad was priced on a cost only basis so the publisher would not be accused of taking advantage of the situation.

Gurnee, Libertyville, Prospect Heights, Lincolnshire and Riverwoods declined. Mt. Prospect accepted the proposal and will be the only flood-torn community expressing thanks in an upcoming edition to Great Lakes personnel.

Figuring the population in the six-community flood area benefiting from Great Lakes personnel, the cost of the thank-you ad would have amounted to a few pennies or less per taxpayer.

In contrast, the Great Lakes Bulletin devoted two-pages of words and pictures in its May 28 issue of how sailors willingly responded to their neighbors in time of need.

The civilian indifference stinks. In a small way, it is indicative of the segment of the American population that takes for granted how the men and women in uniform serve the U.S. Even though they got stiffed this time, we're betting that the folks at Great Lakes will turn to when called upon when the waters come up again at some time in the future. They'll respond because that's the kind of people they are—selfless and dedicated.

Editor's note: Through a contract with the Dept. of Defense, Lakeland Newspapers publishes the weekly Bulletin for the benefit of military and civilian personnel at Great Lakes. News and photos are produced by a separate staff under supervision of the Office of Public Affairs. The expressions of the writer are his own and in no reflect policies or opinion of the U.S. Navy in any way, shape or form.

New era emerging?

A new era in cooperation between county government and villages could be taking place with the villages of Long Grove and Hawthorn Woods enlisting Lake County Board help to fend off a small lot development considered contrary to community standards. Long Grove Mayor Tony Dean believes that county support will fortify boundary agreements between the two villages that prevent developers from playing one village off another. Nearby homeowners are worried that the county will get flim-flammed into approving "conservation development" which opens the door to small lots clustered around a wetland. No way, declared County Board Rep. Pam Newton (R-Vernon Hills) who is rallying forces to support one acre conventional zoning in the area known for $1 million plus homes.

One man's family

After some delay (no hurry for newborns), Caroline Reilly Schroeder joined the family the evening of June 2, becoming grandchild No. 6. Looking pretty perky with sandy blond hair and pudgy cheeks, Caroline weighed 9 pounds, 4 ounces. She measured 21 1/2 inches. Caroline's tardiness had her parents jittery, but everything in her new home is running smoothly now. Congratulations Elise and Bob.

Vacant buildings - can become community eye-sores

What is the first sign that a community is "losing its image?" The telltale sign is when buildings, both residential and commercial, are left vacant for long periods of time. It can happen anywhere, not just in large, urban areas, and it is why local governments must be ever so vigilant to take action against property owners who don't abide by community standards in maintaining their properties. Allowing vacant eyesore buildings to remain vacant for long periods of time without taking any action gives others the impression that nobody cares and one eye-sore becomes another, and another, and it doesn't take long before you have a decaying neighborhood with decreased property values. Also, vacant buildings attract crime, and neighbors must band together to force their elected leaders to take appropriate action against property owners which

Bauer bombshell benefits Elman

Credit Round Lake Park Mayor Ila Bauer, a Republican, with hurling the first bombshell of the 2004 Lake County election campaign by coming out with an early endorsement for a Democrat.

Bauer, noted for her fierce independence, said she is supporting Sharyn Elman, Democratic nominee for state representative in the 62nd district which includes Gurnee, Grayslake, Third Lake, Gages Lake, Long Lake, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, Hainesville, Wildwood and a substantial part of the Round Lake area.

Elman is challenging incumbent State Rep. Bob Churchill (R-Hainesville), a veteran legislator who at one time was part of the House Republican leadership team.

In crossing party lines, Bauer, a retired school teacher, said she was obligated to look beyond party lines. "I believe Sharyn Elman's life experiences make her a potentially great legislator. As a cancer survivor, media professional and local activist, Sharyn will bring a perspective Springfield that will be cool breath of fresh air."

Elman, a resident of Gurnee and a one-time cable news anchor, said she is offering a mainstream alternative "to one of the most reactionary legislators in Illinois."

Bauer's husband, Don, is concluding a term as a member of the Lake County Board. He did not seek reelection after one term due to health reasons.

Mayor Bauer likes women in politics who aren't afraid of getting their hands dirty in public affairs. She was impressed with Elman's nearly eight-hour stint of sandbagging as flood water rose in Gurnee. Elman called attention to working side-by-side with volunteers from neighboring communities.

allow run-down conditions to fester and deteriorate their neighborhoods.

It is quite amazing what local governments, with the cooperation of citizen groups, can do to go after deteriorating vacant structures. Some communities establish local review boards to hear cases about vacant structures, either eyesores or dangerous buildings, and declare them as nuisances for demolition. Local courts usually support local citizenry who show that they are trying to uphold and enforce their community standards by taking action against unsafe and unsightly vacant buildings. The courts always give responsible property owners the opportunity to bring their buildings up to standard, but when that cannot be done, it is reasonable that the community and neighborhoods should be rid of such properties.

When vacant buildings crop up in a community, the corporate authorities should require the owners of such properties to post signs on the structures that include their names and addresses, mandate that the owner have liability insurance of a certain amount in case there are claims against the property because of its danger or unlawful uses of the vacant building. The owner should be registered and pay a fee to the city or village and provide a name and phone number of the person designated by the property owner to accept a court notice in the event that the city or village takes the issue to the local court.

There have been cases where large retail stores have left one part of a community to build another store blocks away from where their other store was located. What has gripped me is when I have learned that the large retail owner of the property that was left vacant files a provision on that property that it can not be used for a certain period of time in a business that would be in direct competition with the "new store." All that does is guarantee to the city or village that the store that was left vacant may be vacant for a long time. In the real world, this has happened too often.

I am sure that you have noticed in mini-malls or business districts when one store owner moves out and leaves the building in a dilapidated condition, and it isn't long before a store nearby boards up, and the business in the whole area dries up. If the leaders in such communities would be active and make certain that the first business that "closed up" would at least leave the property in reasonable shape, it would help against the "domino effect" where "one by one" other businesses will close and leave the area with a "rundown image."

Quality of life is important to everyone. We can't always take it for granted. Communities and people working together can do so much to maintain their community standards and their quality of life.

Collar counties for real transportation answers

For now, the rushed effort in Springfield to dismantle our region's entire transit system appears to have halted – and for good reason. The proposal to end 20 years of regional cooperation by dismantling the Regional Transportation Authority (RTA) and consolidating two critical transportation planning bodies warrants a detailed policy debate – not an end-of-session deal.

The proposals call for changing the current makeup of the RTA board by giving the majority of the seats to the City of Chicago and Cook County. The plan would also create an all-powerful transportation czar to oversee all decisions for Metra, CTA and Pace. We believe the proposals as they currently stand, jeopardize a system that has worked successfully for more than two decades.

We recognize that there is a need for strategic improvement to the RTA and its member agencies Pace, Metra and the CTA. We embrace the need for a universal fare card and the opportunity to continue to work as a cohesive group to promote positive change. We believe, however, that the best way to address transportation issues is by building regional consensus. Of the eight million residents in the Chicago region, 5.2 million of them live in the suburban communities. Their voice and their representation are essential. Now is the time for more suburban input, not less.

How easily many have forgotten the days of budget crises, service interruption and uncoordinated transportation options for Illinois residents. Today both population and job growth are skyrocketing within the Chicago suburbs of the Collar Counties. Regional leaders need to address the problems of the reverse commute and offer creative solutions such as employer-based and suburb to suburb reverse commute transit options. Dismantling the RTA does not meet the challenge of providing genuine answers. The dismantling does not provide more resources or increase collaboration. It only creates a new bureaucracy and rests power in one politically appointed transportation czar. The plan to dismantle the RTA will drive a wedge in what was once a model for regional cooperation.

Over the past 20 years, we have made significant progress working together. It is now time to move forward together to address the true transportation issues facing our region. Regional collaboration has allowed us to make decisions in the best interest of the public – the public we elected officials are all elected to serve.

Mistreating horses

According to USDA statistics, 50,564 horses were slaughtered in the U.S. in 2003 to cash in on foreign demand for horse-meat.

Recent efforts to ban horse slaughter in Illinois for human consumption have failed. To their everlasting discredit, three of Lake County's state representatives JoAnn Osmond (R-Antioch), Mark Beaubien, Jr. (R-Barrington Hills), and Eddie Washington (D-Waukegan), contributed to the defeat of legislation that would have outlawed the slaughter of horses in Illinois for human consumption.

A horse slaughterhouse in DeKalb is now poised to subject horses to a death even more excruciating, cruel, and violent than that suffered by all the other hapless animals that are slaughtered for human consumption. Inhumane slaughter goes on despite the federal Humane Slaughter Act which has been routinely ignored since its inception in 1958. Illinois will soon have the "distinction" of being second only to Texas in horse slaughter for human consumption in foreign markets.

But all is not lost. Federal legislation is pending in Washington DC, to prohibit the slaughter, import, export, trade, and transport of horses for human consumption. As Illinois citizens we can still urge U.S. Senators Richard J. Durbin (D), and Peter G. Fitzgerald (R), to co-sponsor Senate Bill S. 2352.

Also, Lake Countians can urge U.S. Representatives Mark Kirk (R), and Philip M. Crane (R), to co-sponsor House Bill HR 857.

The fight to protect horses from slaughter for human consumption is not over.

Female lawmakers outraged at Gov.'s comments

By AMANDA SCHMOLDT
Special to Lakeland Newspapers

Female members of the Illinois Senate are outraged that Governor Rod Blagojevich would resort to sexist remarks concerning Attorney General Lisa Madigan's ruling on his plan to mortgage the James R. Thompson Center in Chicago to a French bank.

When Madigan ruled that the plan was unconstitutional because it failed to pass on a three-fifths majority vote in the Legislature, the Governor implied the AG was only backing up her father, House Speaker Michael Madigan (D-Chicago).

"That is preposterous," said State Senator Adeline Geo-Karis (R-Zion), the senior female member in the General Assembly. "I served with Lisa Madigan in the Senate. I know Lisa Madigan well enough to know she has a mind of her own. I agree with her ruling. It should take a 3/5 vote. I doubt very much that her father had anything to do with her decision."

State Senator Christine Radogno (R-Lemont) said the comment is typical of Blagojevich. "He continually denies responsibility for his actions. He blames the Legislature," she said. "This time there was no one else to blame so he tries to discredit the Attorney General. I find his comments sexist, offensive and uninformed. Women in this day and age don't do what their husbands and fathers tell them to. If you want proof, just ask my husband - we have three daughters."

State Senator Pamela Althoff (R-McHenry) thinks the Governor should think twice before resorting to such base, chauvinistic remarks.

"As a woman, I am offended," said Althoff. "In this day and age, I cannot believe a man would be that chauvinistic, even off the cuff. Especially considering the Attorney General's integrity and record, she has certainly proven herself to be a credible Attorney General."

County recorder provides deeds for flood victims

Owners of flood-damaged homes along the Des Plaines River and near the Chain O' Lakes who are seeking financial assistance from Lake County banks and lending institutions will need to show proof of ownership in order to secure loans. In many instances, certified copies of deeds may be the best form of proof of ownership.

"The recorder's office will be working closely with government officials and owners of flood-damage homes to provide any necessary paperwork that has been recorded in our office," said Lake County Recorder of Deeds Mary Ellen Vanderventer. "In an effort to ease their financial burden, we will provide this service at no cost to local home and business owners."

To obtain a free certified copy of the deed to their home, flood victims are encouraged to call the Recorder of Deeds Office at 847-377-2575. These requests will be a top priority for staff and deeds will be mailed to the homeowner the same day.

"We are here to help, and providing copies of flood victims' deeds is the least we can do to assist their recovery efforts. We'll help cut through the red tape any way we can," Vanderventer said.

Lake County military veterans in flood-damage areas may qualify for additional programs. Veterans may contact the Recorder of Deeds Office to obtain a free certified copy of their Military Discharge Papers, commonly known as DD214s, for proof of military service.

Additional flood-related information is available on the Lake County Web site at www.co.lake.il.us.

Lorianne Pierce-Bell and daughter Rebecca Ann Pierce moments after Rebecca arrived at Condell on her wedding day.

Never too late

Antioch couple makes mom's dream come true; weds at Condell Medical Center chapel

Richard Bell and Lorianne Pierce-Bell at Condell's chapel with newlyweds Rebecca and James Ayers. James said he fell in love with Rebecca on the dance floor the night they met at Sundance Saloon, a country western dance hall in Mundelein.

Lorianne Pierce-Bell models the wedding mask Toni Manfredonia, RN, made for her.

By CARLA ESSER LAKE
Special to Lakeland Newspapers

Hair just done, nails manicured, and dressed in sequined chiffon, the glowing picture of a proud mother on her daughter's wedding day, Lorianne Pierce-Bell awaited the arrival of her precious bride-to-be, Rebecca Anne Pierce.

But Lorianne wasn't waiting in her own living room or even at the church. She was standing in her hospital room at Condell Medical Center in Libertyville as her nurse disconnected her from her chemotherapy IV drip.

Lorianne had been planning for this day ever since Rebecca, her only child, was born 27 years ago. But as fate would have it, just weeks short of the special day, Lorianne was hospitalized for what began as a gallbladder attack, then led to a diagnosis of leukemia.

"Knowing how much her daughter's wedding meant to Lorianne, the doctors, nurses—all of us—tried so hard to get her well enough to attend," said Sue Dorsey, RN, one of Lorianne's nurses at Condell.

But when Lorianne came down with a fever, prompting further chemotherapy, her physicians had no choice but to keep her in the hospital. That's when Lorianne's nurses set to work planning a wedding ceremony to be held in the hospital chapel.

Registered nurse Toni Manfredonia decorated Lorianne's hospital mask with white ribbon and frills, and certified nurse's assistant Josephine Soderberg prepared vases of white and yellow silk roses to display in the chapel—special wedding touches with the dual purpose of protecting Lorianne from bacteria that could worsen her condition.

The nurses had just disconnected Lorianne's IVs when the bride-to-be, the picture of a grownup princess, arrived in her wedding gown, greeting her mom with a long, tight hug as tears of joy and sorrow dripped from her eyes. Mom and daughter exchanged "I love yous" as they embraced, grateful to be able to share this special day together.

Amongst the usual wedding fervor of professional photo-taking, maid of honor Nicole Piskiewicz fussed over Rebecca's dress while Lorianne's sister, Suzanne Grady, who came in from Pennsylvania, arranged Rebecca's necklace just so. The nurses doted on Lorianne, arranging the frills on her mask and helping her with her earrings.

When mom, bride and their whole entourage were finally ready to depart for the chapel downstairs, Lorianne's husband, Richard Bell, pushed her wheelchair toward the elevator, the cheerful sound of song in the air with Lorianne leading, "We're goin' to the chapel, and we're gonna get married...goin' to the chapel of love."

Lorianne's brothers, Scott and Keith Umericht, met the group as they exited the elevator downstairs and posed for more photos.

Meanwhile, the groom, James Ayers, waited patiently in the chapel, along with Rev. La Monte Ballard, Jr., a longtime family friend and former pastor of Washburn Congregational Church in Prairie View, who also had renewed Lorianne and Richard's vows.

To prepare Condell's multi-denominational chapel for the service, Rev. Ballard rotated the beautifully carved multi-faith altar assembly past the crucifix and Star of David settings to the Protestant cross.

At last, the big moment had arrived. "Dum-dum-da-dum... dum-dum-da-dum," hummed the friends and loved ones—including Lorianne's mom and grandma—who filled the cozy chapel as Rebecca entered and walked up front to meet her husband-to-be.

Rev. Ballard greeted the bride and groom, then proceeded with his short sermon, affirming that true love means commitment through good times and bad.

Pronouncing their lifelong commitment to each other, Rebecca and James exchanged vows, rings, and their first marital kiss, surrounded by family and friends new and old, who pulled together in the name of true love to make sure Lorianne could participate in this special day.

would be outside of Mundelein, people must drive through the village.

Arlington Park currently operates Trackside an off-track betting facility in Waukegan, located at 630 Green Bay Road near Route 120.

Arlington Park spokesperson Dan Leary said that the Ivanhoe location is only one of the many the racetrack is investigating for a possible establishment.

"There was an inquiry made, but it was some time ago, and it's just one of the many places we're investigating," Leary said.

Eighty-five percent of Arlington Park's revenue comes from horse-race bets placed somewhere other than the Arlington Heights race-tracks. Some of those are OTBs and others are race-tracks. Ten years ago, it was the opposite, with 85 percent of betting being done at the track.

Leary said that having the community's approval for an OTB facility is very important.

"One of the most important things for us in any location that we go in to is that we are wanted by the community," he said. "It's very important for us to be a good neighbor."

If the site in Ivanhoe comes to fruition, it would likely be a combination business with a restaurant or bar in addition to the OTB, Leary said.

The facility would be required to give two percent of the total amount of money bet to the county. Since it is in an unincorporated area, Mundelein would receive no revenue.

The county is expected to hold a public hearing sometime in July, and will discuss the issue at a June 15 regional planning commission meeting.

Staff reporter Ginny Skewers contributed to this report.

always be on his record, which is as it should be." If he doesn't serve his community service, Jason Mitsias could have his sentence revoked and a judge could re-sentence him, she said.

Stanton was pleased that Judge Donald Geiger ordered both men to not have any animals in their custody. It was important to her that the situation not be repeated.

The charges were originally filed in September of 2002, when a stray dog led a Lake County Sheriff's Department deputy to a location in Wadsworth where dogs were staked outside, and dog-fighting equipment and training rings were found on the property, which was leased by the Mitsias'. About a dozen pit bulls had been seized, one of which was shot and killed when it attacked another dog. Many of the dogs were injured as if they had been in fights and were malnourished and dehydrated. Three puppies were treated and put up for adoption.

The dogs were taken into the custody of the Animal Shelter in Mundelein to be evaluated and possibly euthanized. Shortly thereafter there was during a break-in at the shelter and two of the dogs were stolen and never found. No charges were ever filed in the break-in.

Throughout the trial and its numerous continuations members of animal rights groups have attended the hearings. Stanton said she thought most of the animal advocates were happy with the sentencing, even though they would have preferred charges had been for a felony rather than a misdemeanor.

Stanton said they got the best they could with the evidence they were allowed to use. The Mitsias' lawyers were able to suppress some evidence.

Little Gym offers big fun for children

Tracie Yoder was doing child research in North Carolina when she stumbled across a Little Gym for her son. When she ran out of grant money for her research, she was hired on to work for the gym's pre-school program.

"I just fell in love with the philosophy and positive attitude behind the gym," Yoder said.

Once she decided to move to Illinois, it was time to find another Little Gym. And her timing couldn't have been more perfect. The owner at the time of the Little Gym in Gurnee was just getting ready to retire and looking for the perfect person to sell the business too.

Yoder's Gurnee Little Gym was born.

"(Little Gym) offers an opportunity for kids to safely take risks," Yoder said. "In doing so they learn the values of success, and build perseverance, self esteem and confidence."

Since taking over the Little Gym in Gurnee, Yoder has seen it blossom. A new renovation has made it an air-conditioned building allowing the Little Gym to now offer a summer camp.

The camp, for ages 3-12, runs for three hours on Tuesday and Thursday mornings and Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Each week of the camp offers free play and group activities along with creative new themes. Each week the kids are led through make believe adventures around the gym such as dinosaur walks or treasure hunts. All in all, Yoder has planned a very high-energy summer for the children.

"If you want your kid to nap, this is the camp for you," Yoder said.

The Little Gym also offers a great environment for summer birthdays as the kids can stay in an air-conditioned building but participate in something more proactive than an arcade. The children are led in games, activities and gym exploration all centered around the birthday boy or girl. The Little Gym also provides a party room for cake, presents and pictures.

Look for the mini-obstacle course set up at the Toddler Tyme Expo in Libertyville on June 12th where the children can get a little taste of what the Little Gym has to offer.

Another great event to come

Lakeland Media and the Round Lake Area Park District are joining forces to stage an unforgettable day on September 12, 2004 for athletes and sports fans alike. Start the day with the Park District's 4th annual "On the Run" 5K Run/Walk to benefit Illinois Special Olympic athletes from the Round Lake area. Sports offered include bowling, basketball, power lifting, track and field and volleyball.

The Special Olympics Oath is the guiding principle for training and competing in these games. It states, "Let me win. But if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt."

"Our athletes gain so much from participating in these events. It helps them gain self-confidence and learn about teamwork. They meet other kids and make new friends as they compete in area events," says Amanda Beitzel. "Everyone is a winner in these Olympics."

The first 100 competitors to sign up for the race will receive a free T-shirt and all children entered will receive a participation ribbon. Prize brackets for the race include: best overall time for male and female and age brackets for each gender as follows: under 16; 16-29; 30-39; 40-49; 50 and up. Check-in and registration is a 7 a.m. with the race starting at 8 a.m. All runners are invited to enjoy a continental breakfast donated by Panera Bread of Round Lake.

"We are looking for participants, sponsors and volunteers to help with this event. This year we anticipate as many as 70 athletes competing and are hoping for the community's support to make this our most successful year ever," said Peggy Dohr, Assistant Executive Director of the Park District.

Following the race, Lakeland Media will be hosting a Sports Fan Expo. Highlights of the Expo will include appearances by professional athletes and autograph sessions throughout the day. Booths and displays supporting sports and the community will be on hand.

The event and Expo are open to the public. Look for details as the date approaches. Call the Round Lake Area Park District for details on the race at 847-546-8558 ext. 250. Contact Lakeland Media at 847-223-8161 about Expo details.

You'll marvel at Keyth Technologies Service

You're locked out of your house. You just bought ice cream and other groceries. Can't get a hold of your spouse. You're in trouble. You need a hero, or superhero, to come in and save the day.

Enter the Keyth Tekno Action Force, protector of all, A.K.A. Keyth Technologies, Inc. Keith Fisher, proprietor of the North Shore security and telephone systems company for over 29 years, wanted to create an image of safety, protection and fun. And what a lasting impression he has given.

Fisher has developed comic characters in his like, as well as his employees, that showcase a particular talent or interest, in a comic-strip-like fashion. Characters such as the leader Protektor, and members Vault, Jamzie M and Alert are shown on his fleet of vans, as well as trading cards, dolls, key chains, t-shirts and comic books. All characters are registered through Marvel comics.

"All of these characters represent a particular passion of the employee they represent," said Keith Fisher.

Fisher has used his business success to help numerous charities around the Chicago area. He created a comic book about the group Tekno Action Force, a league of super heroes who teach kids about safety from villains. Each issue of the Tekno Action Force comic features a different safety-related theme, such as "Don't talk to strangers." Fisher helps raise $40,000 annually for the Highland Park Park District, as well as SMILE scholarships.

The goal in mind with associating super heroes to the security and telephone business is to create an image of honesty, trust, goodwill and protection. So when you think of safety, whether it is alarms, video surveillance equipment, locks and safes, Fisher would like everyone to think of his business.

Keyth Technologies slogan is "To Service and Protect with Attitude." For more information about Keyth Technologies, call 847-433-0000, or visit www.keyth.com.

The Keyth Tekno Action Force will be on display June 12th at the Family Toddler Tyme Expo at the Libertyville Sports Complex. They'll hand out comic books, as well as be in their superhero costumes, alongside Spider-Man. By visiting the expo, you might just see Protektor take on Spider-Man.

Casual, cool, never sloppy 'big enough' clothing line

The new spring and summer lines from big enough clothes keep kids looking fashionably ready for Spring fever to Summer fun. Making shopping a pleasure for mothers, big enough clothes consultant Allison Waggoner will hold a Spring/Summer Trunk Show to show what's new with big enough. Waggoner is offering moms first dibs on these take-it-easy togs for toddlers to pre-teen.

"These lines are built for comfort and for speed," explains Waggoner, Chicago North Shore's big enough consultant. The same can be said of the ease and convenience of choosing these clothes. Moms avoid the malls, parking hassles and reluctant kids. At our Trunk Shows, the focus is on outfitting your kids in clothes built for the real world and doing it in a relaxing, fun way.

The theme for the Spring Line is "Let's go Play". As always, big enough clothes promise comfort, color and versatility. There are many choices within a style and each piece has its own unique color combination. For girls, there are three color groups — bright, pastel and neutral — so there's something perfect for everyone. A seasonal favorite, the sportskirt, is designed with built-in undershorts. This pairs perfectly with a wide variety of t's, tanks and polos. Crop bells, roll shorts, flight capris and cargo skirts are available in a choice of colors and fabrics. Cool, cotton dresses for the younger girls are picnic and party pretty in stripes and florals.

Boys can choose from four styles of sturdy shorts, two in big enough microfiber, the softest fabric of the season. Easy-going reversible stripe T's come in five color combinations. The banded, basic T's include athletic silk-screens. Cargo shorts, long shorts and airborne pants feature an inside elastic adjustable waistband to fit just about anybody. Comfy hooded sweatshirts and rugged crews top off the look. Finally, big enough boasts specialty pieces for the stylish toddler, like stripe-pipe Bermudas and plaid madras Bermudas.

Looking at the Summer Line, "Snapshots of Summer", the key is color—and lots of it. The girls' colors are orange and pink, with a bright, retro floral, a soft, seersucker gingham and great stripes in terry. Girls will also sport pull-on shorts and cropped pants, structured skirts with grosgrain belts, tie tops and sleeveless polos and hoodies. Hot fun in the summer time never looked so cool.

big enough boys will be hitting the beach in an orange and a blue group that include microfiber shorts that double as bathing suits, in paisley and color-block. There are plaid and paisley button-down shirts, plaid boat shorts and long, twill utility shorts. V-neck and sleeveless T's feature fun silk-screens. Nothing fussy, and because the pieces complement each other, the look is casual, never sloppy.

big enough clothes also uses an exclusive mix-and-match selling technique alleviating morning dress stress for moms of children ages 2-12. World of Wardrobing, or WOW, involves a complete collection of colors, patterns and silhouettes that work together for a great look, even Dad can pull together matching outfits. A parent purchasing eight individual pieces of big enough clothes can create an instant wardrobe of 16 outfits.

To schedule a personal shopping appointment with big enough clothes to view the Spring/Summer Trunk Show, contact Allison Waggoner at 847-482-1822 or allisonwaggoner@aol.com. For more information on becoming a fashion consultant for big enough clothes, visit their website at www.bigenough.com.

Founded in 1988 by two sisters-in-law, big enough clothes designs and manufactures high-quality, European-inspired clothing for children up to 12 years of age. The wardrobe features the finest quality cotton and cut for comfort, as well as unique design and color concepts. big enough clothes has a loyal network of direct sales representatives across 43 states. Customers can view the company's unique World of Wardrobing (WOW) through Trunk Shows or personal appointments. For more information, visit www.bigenough.com online.

Come to the Family Toddler Tyme Expo and check out the new spring and summer lines from big enough on the fashion show stage. Kids will be running down the runway looking fashionable for Spring fever to Summer fun around 12:30 in the afternoon. See you there on June 12th at the Libertyville Sports Complex.

An SUV with absolutely no limitations

In March, Infiniti introduced its first full-size premium sport utility vehicle, the incredible Infiniti QX56.

The first Infiniti assembled in North America is designed to provide luxury on a grand scale, with eight-passenger seating, progressive styling, advanced technology and exceptional on-road and off-road performance. Taking advantage of its long 123.2 inch wheelbase and very manageable 206.9 overall length, the QX56 designers filled the new SUV's spacious interior with unbelievable roominess, comfort and convenience features, and a distinctively plush atmosphere.

This amazing vehicle doesn't just assert itself with sheer physical scale. Its agile handling and responsive acceleration makes it a dream to drive around town as well as around the mountains. So if you're looking for the ultimate in SUV performance and luxury, look no further than all-new Infiniti QX56.

For more information on the Infiniti QX56, call Bob Braude at 847-362-9200 or visit Fields Infiniti of Libertyville located at 1121 South Milwaukee Ave.

The Volvo XC90. A Real Class Act

Just as we all became accustomed to the SUV, Volvo comes along and redefines the genre with their exciting new XC90.

It's not exactly a truck, but it is a vehicle that's certainly built for more than a ride to the supermarket. Versatility, cutting-edge safety features and an elegant design are just some of the things that set the Volvo XC90 apart from its competition.

Volvo XC90

As we've come to expect from Volvo, the XC90 has state-of-the-art safety features, including the world's first Roll Stability Control (RSC), as well as an inflatable side curtain for all three rows of seats, an integrated sliding center booster seat for children, and seatbelts with "pre-tensioners" for every passenger.

It's also the only premium SUV with an inline engine mounted sideways. This allows the front row of seats to be moved forward, creating more cabin space. The result? A vehicle that's compact on the outside, yet spacious on the inside.

Add in some of the creature-comforts like the available Dolby 5.1 Pro Logic II surround sound stereo system with a 305-watt Alpine amplifier and 12 premium speakers, and you definitely get one of the finest SUVs you'll find anywhere.

For more information call Joe Cotteleer at 847-362-9200 or visit Fields Volvo of Libertyville located at 1121 South Milwaukee Ave.

Having fun can be rewarding and educational Sharon Bucholtz, Discovery Toys Educational Consultant, believes that play is a child's work. Children play to learn, to grow, and to experience the world around them. Through a high level of open-ended play, these products encourage a child's positive growth and development. So, children love the toys because they are fun, and while they are playing, they are learning. For her, Discovery Toys provides a meaningful business opportunity. It's a career that allows Sharon to build her work schedule around her family while earning an income that supports her lifestyle.

Discovery Toys was something that Sharon felt would not take away from my family but enhanced it. She plays with her children all of the time and tries to give them the best of everything important. Why not make money to support that and use her children as her toy testers? Plus, all she had to lose if this venture didn't work was to be "stuck" with some great toys to help her give her children a great start in school and life.

Children develop certain skills at certain times. And when the right toy is introduced at the right age and skill level, the child is given an invaluable head start in the learning process. Be sure to stop by and see Sharon at the Family Toddler Tyme Expo on June 12th. Sharon can be reached at 847-356-5683 for additional information.

Delores displays her fun artwork

Stop by the Family Toddler Tyme Expo and see Delores Weissman's artwork available to spice up any kids room. Weissman is a self taught artist who has been painting and perfecting her skills for approximately 25 years. Her works were placed in the illustrator data base at Goldenbooks Family Entertainment in July of 2000. The majority of her works are cartoons, however she does other scenes as well. See Delores at the show and check out her new spider man artworks and more. Email queries to fishleap@msn.com and see additional images at <http://paintingsbydelores.com> on-line.

New autos are all about family

When entering the Family Toddler Tyme Expo this weekend, be prepared to be greeted by the newest line of family automobiles from Gregory Hyundai-Dodge.

The Dodge Caravan, Chrysler Pacifica, Jeep Grand Cherokee the best-selling Hyundai Santa Fe will all be sitting in front of the Libertyville Sports Complex. They'll be waiting for someone to visit the Highland Park or Lake Villa store to take home one of their sisters or brothers for every sort of family function imaginable.

"These type of cars are always synonymous with families," Greg Mauro, owner of Gregory Hyundai-Dodge said. "We've always catered to moms, families and carpooling.

An important element that Mauro wants to stress is that the dealerships are closer than most even realize. The expo in Libertyville is just about half way between the Highland Park and Lake Villa dealerships. Both locations have been serving Lake County for over 23 years, and Mauro is hoping to see a lot of his customers at the event.

When it comes time for a family car, however, few things are more important than safety, and all of the new models being released at Gregory excel in just that. All their vehicles have scored highly in their crash test rating, and the new Hyundais and Chryslers come standard with air bags normally used in Mercedes. And now most cars come standard with side-curtain air bags as well.

With smaller children in mind, the new SUV lines have three port safety harnesses that give smaller children extra support in case of an impact.

Another common trend for family cars is loading them up with family stuff. The new line of mini-vans including the Chrysler Town & Country and the Dodge Caravan feature the "stow & go" chairs that eliminate the hassle of always removing seats. They can now fold easily down into the floor and then right back up when seating is needed.

"The most popular models for new families are the mini-vans," Mauro said. "They've always been our bestseller and right now the Grand Caravan is the least expensive mini-van in its class."

A major element to Gregory vehicles is making sure that the care and service doesn't get handed away with the keys. That is why they offer some of the best warranties available. As opposed to the typical three year, 30,000 mile warranty, Gregory Hyundais, Dodges, Chryslers and Jeeps come with seven year, 70,000 mile power train warranties. They can even be upgrade available with a 10-year, 100,000-mile warranty.

So keep one eye peeled for the snazzy new line of cars parked in front of the Family Toddler Tyme Expo and you may be able to provide your kids with something that will be of value to them well past their childhood days.

Sweet warehouse tours at Jelly Belly Center in Wisconsin

A train ride, an animated dancing chorus line and candy stacked to the rafters are some of the sweet delights drawing candy fans to the Jelly Belly Center near Kenosha. The famous jelly bean maker, Jelly Belly Candy Company, opened the doors of its Wisconsin warehouse to the public and tours continue to set attendance records.

Located about 15 minutes north of Great America and not far from factory outlet shopping, the Jelly Belly Center is a sweet stop off Interstate 94. Tours are free, and of course there are samples of Jelly Belly jelly beans.

Visitors begin their confectionery adventure in the large, candy-filled store where tours start at Jelly Belly Junction. When it's time to hope on board the Jelly Belly Express, visitors board a four-car train that travels through the warehouse at top speeds of five miles an hour. The ride takes about 30 minutes as the train's engineer narrates the tour and makes seven stops at large video screens.

The Jelly Belly Center welcomes small children in strollers, and tours are wheelchair accessible. Tours are free and no reservations are necessary. Located at 10100 Jelly Belly Lane, the warehouse opens open daily 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For directions call the 24-hour information line at (866) 868-7522, or on-line at JellyBelly.com, click on "Fun" on the home page and select Tours.

Stop by and see Mr. Jelly Belly at the Family Toddler Tyme Expo on June 12 at the Libertyville Sports Complex. Do you know what his favorite flavor Jelly Belly is?

McNulty School of Irish Dance this summer

This summer, let your children explore Irish dance, and McNulty will keep their minds as active as their feet. Irish dance is a workout for the brain, as much as the body. The McNulty School offers opportunities for students to compete, perform, and travel with Irish dance. McNulty teachers are certified by the Irish Dance Commission in Dublin.

Special dance classes are offered to boys, and teen beginner classes, and classes for all ages three through adult. Don't let your child's young mind grow sluggish in the summer heat...check out the Irish dance performance at the Family Toddler Tyme Expo on June 12th at 3:00. You can also register for summer classes and see where Irish dance can take your child! Call McNulty School of Irish Dance at 847-698-4434 for additional information.

Using the summer to prevent attention problems

Dear Dr. Singer,

My child has some attention based learning problems which lead to bad behavior in school and I'd like to keep him working somehow over the summer. We do not have him enrolled in any summer school or other educational program. Can you recommend some things we can do, even at home, to keep his mind on top of things for next year? M.M.

Dear M.M.,

I have some suggestions, but realize that your child will probably not want to spend a minute of the summer doing them. In my mind, this really shouldn't be that much of a concern, because if these things are part of what you deem important for the child, it becomes something that just needs to be done. I say this only because I want you to be prepared for the 'guff,' you may get!

I heard an interesting piece of information from one of my clients that I think is important for this type of thing. She told me that she heard another professional say that children lose about a month of school learning over the summer and that it takes an average of 2 months for them to get back up to speed in the fall. I cannot document the accuracy of this quote, but it does make sense to me. I am an advocate of summer learning. Here are some suggestions that have worked well for my clients:

1.) If you feel that your child's problem is something more than you can handle by yourself, or a problem that causes a lot of frustration for the child, have the child evaluated first to be sure that you are not mounting up more frustration. Once that is done and you have knowledge of what is o.k. to use over the summer, you can go ahead with the other suggestions. If you want direction on how to get the child evaluated, you can call me for more information.

2.) Summer is a terrific time to accelerate

PARENT'S PLACE

Dr. Sherri Singer

the foundation skills of attention and processing. Working over the summer can really make a difference for the next school year. Last week I wrote about multi-tasking, which is the core of good attention and behavior and is imperative to good learning and educational success. Many kids are lacking in this skill and it causes frustration and ultimately bad behavior, and the summer is the perfect time to get that caught up to speed so the next school year can become a lot easier for the child, the parents and the teachers. What I do with kids in my practice is a deeper level of multi-tasking improvement. I go to the root and work with sensory multi-tasking or the ability to absorb and integrate multiple pieces of sensory information at once and be able to put them into action, using visual, auditory, tactile or touch all at once. Something that we may view as simple such as listening to a teacher and being able to also visually absorb what is on the black board at the same time. Something like writing notes or observing a picture on a paper while listening to the teacher. These things are very hard for many kids because they can't keep all of those senses working together and get all the information. They might be o.k. with using one sense like seeing information, but if they try to add in a second one like listening at the same time, they can't do it. They get lost. Practicing this skill can mean the difference between a confident kid with a good sense of self and his or her abilities, and a kid who feels like everyone else gets it and he or she doesn't. To me, this is really of the utmost importance in a child's life and if you have the time over the summer, it is a great time to make sure that your child gets this important skill.

Unfortunately, too often, people confuse this multi-tasking weakness with an attention weakness so instead of working on the actual skills and making them stronger, many kids mistakenly get referred toward a medical direction and those skills just keep getting weaker and weaker because they never get the training they need to become strong. In fact, this is the core of my prevention program for the little ones. I figure that if I train these multi-tasking skills early enough, many kids will not ever have to face these kinds of weaknesses at all. Again, if you want to work these skills and improve them for the next school year check with me.

3.) If you have a computer, go out and get some structured (last year and next year grade) software packages in areas like Math, Reading, Spelling, Science, Writing, etc. If you go to a place like Best Buy, you can usually find a lot of those kinds of programs. Set up a structured schedule during the summer. For example, you may require 1 hour per day on a different program each day. You might have weekly requirements set up. You might make it goal oriented. For example, if your child does all of the weekly requirements adequately, you might reward him on Friday with a Blockbuster Gift Certificate for Friday night. Incidentally, the reward is not a bribe. It is a goal met for hard work and effort. If you have a problem with that type of thinking, you really need to reevaluate your thoughts about this. Motivation works for all of us. It's also a big part of the society you are training your child to live in. If you do not have a computer, there are books available like this as well. Check at a place like Barnes and Noble, Border's Book stores or Teacher's Supply stores.

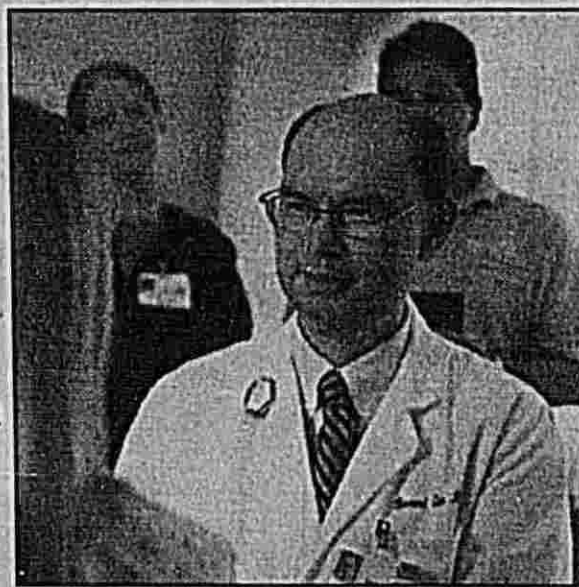

4.) If your child reads at an adequate level, you might put together a grade-appropriate book list for him or her to choose from. Have the child choose a book for each 2 weeks of summer and require that 1 hour a day be spent reading. You might have the child do some sort of a small report, either written or oral for you.

These suggestions are actually good for kids who are doing well in school and for kids who aren't. It's good to keep those little brains frosty and alert over the summer so that when school begins, kids are ready to launch right back into it and they may pick more up from the beginning. Kids may think this mean or 'overkill' but you are actually making their lives easier by keeping them on track during the summer. They will have a far easier time in the fall after this is done.

Dr. Singer is a Psychologist who regularly works in person with readers of this column improving kid's attention, behavior, processing and learning skills fast. She has been an ADD Coach to many kids on meds and has also trained the skills of many other labeled kids who are not on medication to take them to attention, behavior and learning heights their parents never dreamed they were capable of. For an appointment call (708) 962-2549 or (847) 231-5644. Dr. Singer's office is located in Grayslake.

O'Leary, Dovichi come up big for Carmel

Corsairs take Schaumburg Supersectional title

By ROB BACKUS
rbackus@lakelandmedia.com

Tuesday's game had to be a breath of fresh air for Carmel southpaw Mike O'Leary.

After opening the season with a perfect 9-0 record, O'Leary had struggled of late, losing his last two starts of the regular season and faltering in the Mundelein regional final against Grayslake, a game which Carmel eventually came back to win.

"I had some mechanical issues and I started to get down on myself," O'Leary said.

But after his performance against Niles West at Alexian Field in the Schaumburg Supersectional on Tuesday, O'Leary couldn't help but smile.

O'Leary pitched his best game in a month, throwing a five-hitter against the Warriors, as Carmel prevailed 6-2.

"This game meant a lot to me," O'Leary said. "It showed that the coaches had a lot of confidence in me."

One aspect of the team that the coaches have always had confidence in, the hitting, came up big early and often for the Corsairs.

Carmel got on board in the top of the 1st inning as Brandon Ziemann reached on a one-out error by Maine West shortstop Carl Petersen. Adam Kanka then came up one batter later and reached on an infield single, which scored Ziemann.

That was the first unearned run for the Corsairs against Warriors hurler Mike Stankiewica, but it wouldn't be the last.

"We were taking advantage of the mistakes they were making," Carmel coach Chuck Gandolfi said.

Maine West committed four errors in all, leading to a pair of unearned runs.

Teen HR Derby coming to Gurnee

Lake County's teen sluggers can swing for fame, glory, trophies and bragging rights in the Century 21 United Home Run Derby, Sunday, June 27 in Gurnee. This third annual event will attract scores of teen athletes and is patterned after the Major League Baseball Home Run Derby, televised nationally before every All-Star Game.

The Century 21 United Home Run Derby will start at 11 a.m. Sunday, June 27 at the American Legion Post 771 Baseball Complex at Route 21 and Grand Avenue in Gurnee. Separate contests will be held for players ages 11-14. Sluggers hitting the most home runs in each round will advance to the next round until final winners are determined.

This exciting swing-for-the-fences competition is sponsored by Century 21 United, one of the largest real estate firms in Lake County, and hosted by Gurnee Youth Baseball, which will receive all proceeds.

Participants must fit designated age categories and play in sanctioned youth baseball leagues in Lake County. To register, call Carolyn Seketa at 847-265-1121 to request forms. Space is limited and the registration deadline is June 21st. Some participants will be designated by their sanctioned youth baseball leagues in Lake County.

The Gurnee slugfest is patterned after the 2004 Major League Baseball Home Run Derby, which takes place Monday, July 12 at the Houston Astros' Minute Maid Park, just before the All-Star Game.

Great raffle prizes will be drawn at the Gurnee event, including two tickets to the Major League Baseball Home Run Derby in Houston plus up to $750 in travel vouchers. Another raffle prize, a Harmon Killebrew autographed baseball, will honor the 1984 Hall of Famer who hit 573 career home runs over 22 years. Other prizes are a Cal Ripkin autographed poster, honoring the Baltimore Orioles shortstop who played a record 2,632 consecutive games—and Chicago Cubs and Chicago White Sox tickets.

Sluggers registration for the Gurnee Home Run Derby costs $5. Families are welcome at $2 per adult and $1 for each child or senior.

CARMEL

The Warriors had their best chance to stay in the game in the bottom of the first inning, with runners on first and second and no one out.

However, Mike Kelso bunted the ball too hard to O'Leary, who gunned down Tyler Ladendorf at third base. Mike Biggs then into a fielder's choice and Peterson ended the inning with a flyout to Mike Serio in right field to end the threat.

Carmel's offense, however, had no trouble putting more runs on the board as Steve Hironimus led off the second inning with a walk and proceeded to jog home as Bryan Dovich crushed a 390-foot bomb off the scoreboard to give the Corsairs a 3-0 lead.

"It felt really good coming off the bat," Dovich said. "I didn't know I hit it that hard, though."

"He's been so good for us all year," Gandolfi said. "But that's our team. Everyone contributed and everyone has picked us up at one time."

With a 3-0 lead, O'Leary settled into a groove, retiring 13 of the next 14 hitters he faced.

"Mike was really cruising along," Gandolfi said.

The Corsairs' hitting attack kept cruising along as well, adding another pair of runs in the top of the 3rd inning.

Ryan Meehan drew a one-out walk, with John Brennan coming in as a courtesy runner. Nolan Wieck also walked, which ended the day for Stankiewicz.

Jake Tamillo then came in and yielded an RBI single to Nate Rittenberry. Ziemann then walked to load the bases and Serio grounded into an RBI fielder's choice as Carmel took a 5-0 lead.

At that point, Carmel had scored five runs on just three hits.

"We were taking what they were giving us," Gandolfi said.

Carmel added another run in the top of the 6th inning as Meehan doubled to right center and Brennan, who again ran for Meehan, scored two batters later on a sacrifice fly to left from Ziemann to take a 6-0 lead.

Maine West attempted to come back in the bottom of the inning when O'Leary gave up back-to-back RBI doubles as the Warriors cut the lead to 6-2.

O'Leary also allowed the leadoff man to reach in the 7th inning, and Gandolfi had Rittenberry warmed up and ready to come in if O'Leary ran out of gas.

That didn't happen, though. O'Leary retired the final three batters of the game to seal the win.

"Mike deserved the right to finish the game," Gandolfi said. "He kept getting ahead of hitters and kept the ball away from them."

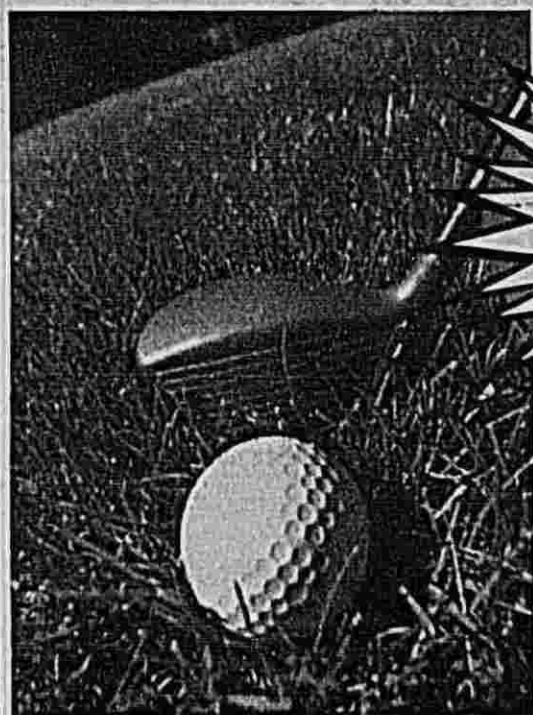

Keeping the ball away from hitters was something O'Leary sought to do as he noticed the umpire was giving several inches on the outside corner.

"The ump was giving the outside strike so I worked with it," O'Leary said. "With the win blowing (to left field) they weren't going to hit it very hard."

The win improved Carmel's record to 32-8, setting up a matchup with Batavia (26-12) at 9 a.m. on June 11 at Geneva's Elfstrom Stadium, home of the Kane County Cougars. It is the Corsairs' first trip downstate since 1999.

Pet OF THE WEEK

HANSEN

Hansen walks well and proudly on leash. Never in any hurry, this quiet seven-year old big boy is just happy to stroll around the Save-A-Pet grounds. He knows sit and lay down and loves butt scratches. Found as a stray, Hansen would, at first, often crouch if people were moving abruptly or raising their voice. But now that he is safe at Save-A-Pet, he seems much more relaxed and content.

Hansen is, unfortunately, slowly getting blind. An eye specialist has examined him and after many tests, he has determined that he is not a candidate for surgery. Dogs generally adjust pretty well to losing their sight, however it is our hope that Hansen might move into a home now and get adjusted to his new surroundings before he loses his sight.

Hansen is looking for an understanding and loving home, preferably with few stairs, no kids or furniture movers. Come and meet him this weekend!

And why not take him or your own dog through Save-A-Pet beginner's obedience class starting on Tuesday, June 15 at 7 p.m. For additional information, please call 84-740-7788, ext. 100 or 101.
